'Cherry Sheets' arrive early

The cherry sheet for the town of Wilmington does not look very good, this year. In a way it is the town's own fault. Wilmington has been efficient in the handling of its finances. That is part of the reason the cherry sheet is down — which sounds like a sad tale, tax wise.

The cherry sheet is the recommendations of state and county government for local aid to the communities. It is published every year and is a part of the computations of the local tax rate. This year, for the first time in some years, it was published in March.

Governor Dukakis had said he would provide a 40 percent growth in local revenues. The exact source has not been specified.

His budget in local aid is up $157.6 million. He is calling for a new equalizing formula to be developed in cooperation with the legislature. The intent is that over a period of time there will be a reduction in the many variations in costs and receipts to the communities.

The governor has also said he is setting aside an 80 percent increase in new aid as a part of his program for educational excellence. This year he is increasing educational aid 14.6 percent.

But in Wilmington the cherry sheet figures for educational aid are down by 12.5 percent, in Chapter 70, (school aid). The figures for Reduction of School Construction projects (building assistance) is down about 100 percent.

The main reason seems to be that Wilmington is paying its bills, and no particular aid is thereby needed. School construction aid is dropping from the $125,338 received last year to $52,632 this year.

On the other hand there is an increase in additional assistance to the General Fund (Local Aid). These funds are based on a complex formula.

A year ago Wilmington received $1,520,646. The figure for the coming year is $1,966,136.

In many other communities the increases will be larger than in Wilmington.

There is always one possibility, in presenting these figures. The state legislature is capable of taking things into its own hands. Any figures for any town or city, proposed in the past week by the governor may be changed.

The total estimated receipts for Wilmington, in the cherry sheet for this year (FY85) are $4,268,868. The current year had figures of $4,080,593. The increase is $187,295, (4.6 percent).

The town budget, not yet presented to the town meeting for FY85 is $21,289,836. The current year is $19,974,980. That is an increase of 6.4 percent.

Arson arrest

A Wilmington man was arrested for arson on Tuesday by Officer Jim McNally after fire destroyed a house under construction on Federal Street. Officer McNally said that John Pellerin, 26, of 183 Wildwood St. admitted to arson, after being confronted with evidence. The fire took place shortly after 10 p.m. Monday. The house is owned by Joseph Langone and Richard Stuart.

Royalty

The Medieval Faire at the West Intermediate School last Thursday was a trip through time for both performers and audience. The king and queen of the event were Jeff Bowen and Melissa Peters. See Page 3

Hart takes primary as storm cuts turnout

Mother Nature ruled the primary election on Tuesday, as a winter storm held down the number of voters. In Wilmington, a total of 2062 people voted.

Sen. Gary Hart topped the list of Presidential hopefuls on the Democratic ballot, with 734 votes. In second place was George McGovern, 442, with Walter Mondale close behind him, 432. Others were John Glenn 206, Jesse Jackson 26, Reubin Askew 3, Ernest Hollings 1 and Alan Cranston 1.

There were 20 votes cast with no preference.

Democratic State Committeeman Stephen J. O'Leary of North Reading had 876 votes. Anna Visconti of Nassau Avenue, Wilmington drew 1181 to 144 for State Committeewoman Shirley Raynard of Middleton.

The list of the Democratic Town Committee was topped by State Rep. Jim Miceli, who had 124 votes. With 35 names for 35 seats, there was no real contest, though.

On the Republican ballot, 157 people voted for Ronald Reagan, with 12 voters indicating no preference.

William Melahn of Andover received 109 votes for Republican State Committeeman, Kevin Leach of Manchester 22, Nancy Luther, who was unopposed for State

Committeewoman, received 97 votes.

There was no contest for Republican Town Committee, with 13 people on a 35-seat committee.

NOTICE RESIDENTS OF WILMINGTON

It has come to my attention there are potentially damaging, unjustifiable remarks regarding my candidacy for Selectman and my relationship to Robert L. Doucette, an existing Member of the Board.

LET ME STATE FOR THE RECORD, "Mr. Doucette and myself are indeed brothers-in-law, but, that is where the relationship ends!"

I have no intention of pooling resources with Mr. Doucette, or anyone else, to try and "control" the Board. Mr. Doucette and myself are not feuding, to my knowledge, and I have no wish to intentionally undermine Mr. Doucette's votes, if they are in the best interest of Wilmington and its residents.

I am my own person and have very definite thoughts regarding town issues, past and present, and will vote accordingly, regardless of how any other votes are cast.

PLEASE, judge me as an individual and not as Robert L. Doucette's brother in-law.

Sincerely, John R. Forrest

CLOCK
Tock
by
THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington

The banjo clock is a wall clock with design and development credited to the United States. It has a round top to hold the mechanism, followed by a tapered narrow mid-section becoming increasingly wider as it extends downward. This houses the swinging pendulum and allows space for the driving weight to descend. A square box is attached to the bottom of the tapered mid-section allowing room for the pendulum disk to swing. With a little imagination, one can see a cabinet similar to a banjo in shape. Regularly, ornamentation decorated the cabinet. A brass eagle sat on top and long brass or wood side runners flanked the mid-section. Simon Willard of Roxbury, Mass., patented the design in 1802, and its popularity soared. By the late 1800's, nearly every clock factory was making banjo clocks in various quantities. Most banjo clocks made before 1900 were driven by a heavy weight, but by the 20th Century banjo clocks driven by coiled mainsprings became more common.

The fronts of the early clocks are often glass with hand painted scenes on the reverse, but most 20th Century models have paper pictures behind the glass. In the 1920's, the Waltham Clock Co. of Waltham, Mass., made reproductions of the banjo clock selling them for around $75.00. Today banjo clocks are still being produced in all qualities, prices, and styles and it may endure as the most popular and sought after of all American clocks.

West Intermediate School stages 'Medieval Faire'

The strains of herald trumpets announced the beginning of the West Intermediate School's Medieval Faire, involving 250 students and almost the entire faculty. Held on March 8th, the Medieval Faire played to two audiences, in the morning for students and in the evening for a standing room only crowd of family and friends. It transported the audience back to the days of chivalry and Camelot.

This unique interdisciplinary event was conceived and directed by Mrs. Sandi Niemi, music instructor, who was awarded a mini-grant by Superintendent Carol Sager to fund the project. The result was an exciting collaborative effort in many subject areas, integrating the arts and providing an interdisciplinary approach to learning.

In art, students learned calligraphy and made medieval banners and masks. They also journeyed to Hammond Castle to learn more about the Middle Ages. Language classes researched a famous pilgrimage. A drawbridge at the entrance to the cafeteria through which audience and performers entered was designed and constructed by industrial arts students. Acrobatic jesters were coached by the Physical Education Department and other exhibits and models were created by Social Studies, Project Enterprise and Home Economics, who also supplied authentic medieval treats. Anne Quinn and the cafeteria ladies coordinated a meal that included chicken, corn and rolls.

One hundred and fifty authentically costumed students performed in the "Royal Banquet Hall" while guests feasted on food served by peasants in the medieval style, using no utensils. Acts included jugglers, pilgrims, monks, madrigal singers, chorus, acrobats, flute and trumpet ensembles, medieval dancers and two plays from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. The program was narrated by Denise McLaughlin. The Audio Visual Club videotaped and handled sound and spotlights.

A highlight of the evening was the procession of noble knights and ladies, preceding the king and queen of the Faire, Jeffrey Bowen and Melissa Peters, who were chosen by their classmates because they exemplified the traits of honesty and courtesy, values important in the 15th and 16th century, as well as in 1984.

Ms. Niemi said, "The response of the students and staff has been overwhelming. The variety and quality of projects and performances has been an exciting finale to weeks of preparation. Our faculty, and especially Principal Bill Fay, have been incredibly supportive and enthusiastic. I'm grateful to everyone who helped."

Mr. Fay commented, "This is the biggest and most successful project I have seen in my 14 years as a principal. The long-term benefits are that the fair brought faculty and students together. It has been a tremendous boost for cooperation and morale, not to mention the academic enrichment that has occurred."

Other staff involved included: drama coach, Ms. Scheiner; drama coach assistant, Miss Krey; videotaping and spotlights, Mr. Finer; industrial arts, Mr. Lage; art, Ms. Weisiger; physical education, Ms. Littlefield; social studies, Mrs. Boucher, Mr. Stone; juggling and photography, Mr. Spriggs; foreign language, Mrs. Schellenbach, Ms. Nowak; minstrels, Ms. Mette; accompanist, Mrs. Stolar; home economics, Mrs. Giordano, Ms. Eaton; costuming, Miss Scheiner, Mrs. Niemi, Mrs. Giordano; Project Enterprise advisors, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Connelly; programs, Mrs. Bernnan; makeup, Ms. Smith.

Chanticleer crowing

One of the more inspired performers in the Medieval Faire was Alicia Cuoco, right, who played the rooster Chanticleer, in a skit taken from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

Kids run whole show as Spotlighters present Krazy Kamp

A buffalo in the boathouse? - a runaway disguised as an Egyptian mummy with an incredible case of poison ivy? - a counselor who throws tantrums at the mere thought of "real work"? - tiny gangsters with ominous looking violin cases searching for stolen money hidden in a toy lamb?

It's all in a typical day at exclusive girls' Camp Pocohontas since the scruffy, "young gentlemen" from Camp John Smith across the lake took up temporary residence and transformed the bucolic summer camp into a wild nest of dirty laundry and empty sardine cans.

Aptly titled Krazy Kamp, this delightfully funny play by Tim Kelly will be presented Saturday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 25, at 2 p.m. by the Silver Lake Spotlighters' Young People's Theatre Workshop at the Abundant Life Christian School, Boutwell Street, Wilmington.

Don't miss this cockeyed, crazy version of camp life, performed, built, painted and run by the 70 workshop students in grades three through nine. Tickets are $3 and are available from any of the students, or by calling Ellen Heigham at 658-6324.

Old fashioned fashion show at Wilmington Women's Club

The Wilmington Women's Club will feature a fashion show at its next meeting to be held Wednesday evening, March 21 starting at seven at the Methodist Church. The club's guest will be Mrs. William Deyoe, director of the Eighth District. Phyllis Flaherty and her committee will serve refreshments before the business meeting.

A special program, "An Old Fashioned Fashion Show," will be presented by Arlene Ten Dyke. The clothes displayed are from her collection and will span a period of 125 years. They have been sewn in a variety of materials using anywhere from one yard to 25 yards of a variety of materials. Also to be included are wedding gowns, the oldest of which dates back to 1860. These fashions, authentically accessorized, will be modeled by the club members and friends.

Mrs. Ten Dyke's interesting and informative commentary is sure to bring back fond memories to some and to delight all those present. Members are urged to attend and take their lady friends to this entertaining and nostalgic look back to the "good old days."

Educational Update

Dr. Carol Sager

In the past few weeks so many parents, teachers, and members of the Wilmington community have taken the time to comment on Educational Update that I must thank you all publicly. It is obvious that the citizens of Wilmington are concerned about education and want to keep informed about what is happening in the schools.

This year has brought a new direction for our arts program. The Music and Art Departments were combined into one department - Performing and Fine Arts, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Leonard.

The purpose of this change was to develop a more comprehensive approach to arts education, emphasizing the philosophy that the arts are not "extras" in a child's education, but in fact, are essential to the development of the whole child, academically, socially, and creatively through all grade levels.

As recent educational reports emphasize, experiences in the arts not only reinforce basic skills and accelerate academic achievement, but provide students vital opportunities to participate in creative thinking, analyzing and decision making processes crucial for later success.

In Japan arts education including dance and drama is considered every bit as important as math and science instruction for all students. And, who ever heard of the need for a "Lemon Law" in Japan?

Mrs. Leonard brings a varied background in arts education to her position. A Phi Beta Kappa in English, she also has an M.F.A. in Theatre, has written and published multi-arts curriculum materials for CEMREL, Inc., which are used in schools nationwide.

In the first half of the year, accomplishments of the Performing and Fine Arts staff has been impressive. Students have received awards and recognition for excellent, arts teachers and classroom teachers have teamed up on special projects, new programs have been piloted, and curriculum revisions and new courses are being designed for the next school year. Some of the highlights include: two high school art students, Kitty Walsh and Thomas Thornton, winning coveted gold key awards from the Boston Globe Scholastic Art competition; five high school music students, April Smallidge, Larry King, Carol O'Brien, Brian Murphy, and John Marino, were accepted to the Senior Mass. Music Educators Association Northeastern District competitions. Two of these students, Brian Murphy and John Marino, were also eligible for the all-state audition; five ninth graders, John Gage, Chris Kane, David King, Missy Frey, Paula Malenchini and five students from the North Intermediate, Suzanne Curtin, Jeff Murphy, Doug Peak, Jennifer Campbell, Sharon Fossey, were accepted for Jr. MMEA District music competitions. Such awards are an excellent showing for Wilmington and reflect, not only the high quality work of our students, but the talent and dedication of our arts teachers.

Sandy Niemi, music teacher at the West Intermediate, was awarded the superintendent's mini-grant to produce a Medieval Fair and banquet which was held March 8. This concept represents a significant integrated arts project, with teachers from many disciplines involved, and all the activities linked to the students' curriculum.

A pilot dance program has been established at the North Intermediate by art teacher Joanne Canzaniello, with plans for expansion next year.

Students are the Woburn Street School attended Boston Symphony Orchestra's Youth Concerts and the Nutcracker. This program will be available at all the elementary schools next year.

Plans are underway for the arts programs reaching out into the community. A student art exhibit is planned for Olin Chemical, Pixelle Computer, and other interested businesses. Mini-concerts have already been held at Olin and the Rotary Club.

The music curriculum is under revision, with an integrated arts component added and arecorder unit introduced in third grade, to allow all students to have an experience on an instrument.

Future plans for the department include the first Wilmington Pops concert and a special June concert - recital - exhibit of both faculty and student work. The proceeds will go to establishing a scholarship fund.

One of the new arts courses proposed at the high school level is an exciting interdisciplinary offering on America in the 1920's, taught by members of the music, art, social studies and English faculty.

In Wilmington the caliber of our arts teaching staff is outstanding. Many are professional artists, as well as teachers, who bring a level of talent to our students that is unique. Their creativity and instructional skills provide our children with an excellent and varied program of which we can all be proud.

In future columns I will address other issues that have been suggested such as science education, English electives, testing, and, of course, the high school renovation. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at my office, 658-2052.

Miceli holds office hours

Representative James R. Miceli, who represents both Tewksbury and Wilmington on Beacon Hill, will hold his monthly office hours for constituents on the following dates:

Tewksbury: At the town hall, Thursday, March 22 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.
Wilmington: At 4A Colonial Park Mall, Wednesday, March 21 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

We have never written a letter to the editor before, but today we feel compelled to do so. The reason? - The upcoming vote on the renovation of the high school. It concerns us greatly that it has been four years since the State Accreditation Committee found our high school far below minimum state standards physically. Our daughter has gone through the Wilmington school system from kindergarten through to ninth grade. She has received an excellent education so far and we are proud of Wilmington's standards at the elementary, and junior high levels. It frightens us to think that all that has been achieved in the lower grades could be jeopardized by deficiencies in the physical plant of the high school.

Specifically, these are some of the problem areas:

1. Science labs that are too small, filled with outdated equipment and having insufficient storage space for chemicals, etc.
2. A library half the size it should be.
3. Business classrooms inadequate to house the kinds of modern business machines essential to training for today's job market.
4. Industrial arts shops dangerously overcrowded.
5. A music room that is no more than an oversized classroom with a lack of instrumental storage space and with sound proofing problems.
6. Art classes being taught in the lobby of the auditorium.
7. Locker rooms and shower facilities so badly deteriorated that many students will not use them.
8. A cafeteria so small that the whole academic schedule must be constantly disrupted to schedule lunch.

We repeat - these are just some of the problems; hardly all. The plans for renovation have no frills. They meet only minimum requirements so that we may receive state financial aid.

In the 25 years since our high school was built, no major improvements have been made. The world our children will live and work in is drastically different today. It is unrealistic to think that what met the educational needs of the '50's will meet the needs of the '80's.

For the good of our town and our children, we urge all our fellow townspeople to join together and vote yes on Referendum No. 1 on April 21, 1984.

Thank you,
Bill & Bunny Frey

Dear Larz:

On March 6, Chief Chandler was called before the (Tewksbury) Board of Selectmen to explain why the Fire Department's budget needed $35,000 to keep fire stations open for the remainder of the fiscal year.

After listening to the Chief's explanation of this shortfall of money, three members of the Board of Selectmen showed some understanding of the crisis that now exists in the Fire Department. Two members of this board, Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Girard, showed complete ignorance in the every day operations of the Fire Department and a lack of confidence in Chief Chandler's leadership.

I have lost all confidence in both Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Girard's leadership on this board. Much more disturbing at this meeting was the arrogant treatment rendered Chief Chandler by Finance Committee members Mr. Masters and Mr. Kelly. The statement that both these men made that the Chief does not manage his budget properly is far from the truth. The Fire Department can not be run like a business. I ask both of these men, what price do you put on a life? The truth is there is no

The Chief has managed his budget to the best of his ability, considering the cut in his budget at the Special Town Meeting and also considering his contractual obligations between the Firefighters Union and the Town. These two men consistently go to town meeting, year after year, and cut the overtime budget even after the Chief states that it is impossible to operate his Department efficiently on this reduced budget. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Masters, when are you going to give the Fire Department a fair shake? Firefighters are not second class citizens and should not be treated as such. They are also taxpayers to the Town of Tewksbury.

Edward Kearns

Dear Larz:

The Deming Way Tenants Organization will be in full swing this year. To start, we are going to have arts and crafts workshops at the hall at Deming Way twice a week beginning this month. So many of our residents are so talented that we thought it would be enjoyable to get together regularly and share our companionship and talents.

What we need are some donations of materials. We will need yarn, as much or as little as possible, for knitting and crocheting, sewing materials, even a workable old sewing machine someone might have, and a lockable cabinet to keep it all in.

We plan to have a flea market at the hall during the year to raise money necessary to purchase screen houses so we may enjoy the warm summer evenings to come.

If anyone has anything to donate, they are urged to leave it at the office at Deming Way between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. It would be most appreciated. Thank you!

Margaret Pelligrino, Pres.
Tenants' Organization

Dear Larz:

For a family for a frail older relative at home, or for an older person living alone, the process of finding needed home care help can seem like a complex puzzle. State legislation has been filed which would require the Commonwealth to put all the pieces of the community care puzzle together in one place.

Senate bill No. 805 and House bill No. 1764 would place all community based long term care programs under the Department of Elder Affairs, (DEA), which currently oversees the Home Care program serving 44,000 elders.

There are alternatives to nursing home care, but funding for home care help comes from many different sources (Medicare, Medicaid, the State Home Care Program, etc.) and these programs are administered by different state and local agencies.

If these bills become law, the family or elder seeking help would be able to call a single local agency, designated by DEA, which would assign a worker to help fit all the pieces together to avoid institutional care.

The Commonwealth's commitment to community services is strong. Yet, Massachusetts still spends close to $500 million a year on nursing home care, an amount that Secretary of Elder Affairs Dr. Richard H. Rowland calls a "lopsided tilt toward institutional care in a state that is committed to community options for those who prefer them."

The legislature's Committee on Human Services and Elder Affairs will hear testimony on S.805 and H.1764 on March 19. Concerned residents who would like to contribute to finding a solution to the community care puzzle should make their views known to their state legislatures now.

Wilmington school notes

Education in America is in a transition stage. The recent report "A Nation Risk," was conclusive evidence that the quality of education in America has not kept pace with expected standards of excellence. The liberal thinking of the sixties and early seventies, has proven to be counter-productive to the educational process.

But this is the eighties, with a new breed of educator with a traditional and conservative set of values. The challenge clearly facing this country, its parents, its teachers and its elected officials, is to institute an educational revival that will put mediocrity behind us forever.

A generation ago, when Sputnik was launched by the Russians, Americans were shocked into the realization that they were behind in the space race. The people of this country accepted the challenge with enthusiasm and vigor, directing all their talents and resource toward what eventually became a victory.

Again we are faced with the same sort of challenge and fortunately we have the resources and energy to meet this one also. Cooperation between parents, teachers and school committees is the key element if we are to succeed. It is the responsibility of the superintendent and school committee to keep lines of communication constantly open with parents and taxpayers being readily available to hear their concerns. Teachers must feel confident that their needs and suggestions are needed. After all the future of our children and this very nation is at stake. It is no longer important to try to assess the blame for the decline in education, rather the issue is simply, what is needed to stop it.

Most leading educational authorities are advocating a "back to basics" approach to initiate improvement. This would include a strong core curriculum of math, science and English with few electives and increased graduation requirements. In a report concerning the decline in scholastic aptitude test scores, presented to the Wilmington School Committee on Feb. 24, by Math Department Chairman Ben Levy and English Department Chairman David Moriarty, it was noted that research showed schools with higher S.A.T. scores consistently offered few electives and more required subjects.

What is being done in Wilmington to bring education back to basics?

1. A two year plan to improve S.A.T. scores has been studied and approved for next year's curriculum. This plan reduces the number of electives in math and English, while increasing the number of score subjects.

2. Curriculum changes at the intermediate level, that reduces the number of industrial arts subjects and adds programs in study skills, reading, keyboard literacy and drug-alcohol awareness have been approved by the school committee.

3. A strong drug policy is now being drawn up by members of the school committee, superintendent, staff and community. This policy will implement swift, rigorous punitive action for offenders if approved.

4. Budget proposals are being limited to direct student services. The implementation of Proposition 2½ has left little room for mistakes when it comes to educational spending. The job of the school committee is to make sure that every tax dollar that is spent yields a dollar's worth of education.

5. Alternative programs are being examined to assess their organization and effectiveness.

6. A study committee has been formed to examine such matters as: discipline, graduation requirements, curriculum, etc. The chairman of this committee, John Brooks, has stressed to his committee members the vital importance of their task.

These are some of the ideas that are being implemented or considered by the school committee to improve education in Wilmington. It is time to get back to basics. It is time to pull together. It is time to face this challenge and look toward a better tomorrow.

Candidates announce for office

Wilmington voters on April 21 will have the opportunity to choose among four candidates for selectmen and six for school committee. There are two seats open on each board.

Seeking re-election to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen are Rocco DePasquale and Jim Stewart. They are challenged by John Forrest and Richard Jenkins.

School Committee members Philip Fenton and Bridget Zukas are up for re-election, and are running against former school committeeman James Demos, Mary Deislinger, Robert LaVita and Anne Linehan.

Unopposed in their bids for re-election are Moderator Michael Cairra and Redevelopment Authority Chairman Carl Backman, Jr.

The candidates' announcements presented on this page were prepared by the candidates or persons representing them. The statements are presented as they were submitted, and the accuracy of information therein is the responsibility of the candidates. The Town Crier has not verified the accuracy of any information contained in the statements. In a local election, the Town Crier allows candidates to submit a statement of candidacy, prior to the filing deadline for nomination papers.

One additional announcement appears on Page 12. Announcements by Bridget Zukas and Robert LaVita appeared in the Town Crier last month.

Phil Fenton running for re-election to School Committee

Philip A. Fenton, Sr. has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Wilmington School Committee. Fenton once again stresses the importance of stretching the tax dollar as far as it will go to obtain the maximum educational effect expected by all taxpayers.

"I am extremely stingy when it comes to spending tax dollars," says Fenton. "It is essential that the citizens of Wilmington receive more for their valued tax dollars than ever before. At the same time we must preserve and enhance the quality of education given to our children. Our children are our most valuable asset."

Fenton states that there is no place in education that can afford politics. Our children should never be utilized as pawns for political gain.

"I care only about our students and what will be in their best educational interest. Get the politics out of the schools!" he said.

Fenton has listed his priorities for the next three years:

Educational needs: The students' educational needs will always have top priority as long as I remain on the School Committee.

High School renovation: The High School renovation project is a must if we are going to be able to upgrade our science, business and shop areas. A new standard size gym with no frills is also necessary.

Needs of the average student: The average student's needs must be addressed more substantially. Curriculum and programs must be developed to insure that as the average child advances through our system his or her needs will be met. The average students comprise the majority of our system and the bulk of our expenditures should be placed on these students needs, thus assuring all of our students education needs are met.

We have a model 766 program and a superb program for the gifted children. These programs must be continued.

Discipline: Discipline must continue to have a very high priority. Without discipline in our classrooms, it is impossible for education to take place. Our teachers are only human. They must have the cooperation of the parents. Both the schools and the parents must expect and require a high standard of discipline.

Grade re-organization: "I advocate grouping of grades 7, 8 and 9; not grades 6, 7 and 8."

Computerization: All of our students must be required to become computer literate. Our society has become so involved with the computer industry that all students will need to know how to operate and understand basic computer language. Knowledge of computers has become a survival skill needed by all of our students.

Drug issue: Drugs will not be tolerated in our schools as far as I'm concerned. I will support the strongest drug policy that the law will allow to rid our school system of all drugs.

Experience: Fenton has been a member of the school committee for the past six years. He has experienced fiscal autonomy and the loss of it under Prop 2½. He has struggled with the issues of loss of 119 staff members and been able to set policy so that the effects have been minimal and the students have continued to maintain a high level of quality education.

Fenton states, "My experience over six years has provided me with the proper tools to help keep Wilmington's standards high but also to strive for higher academic goals which are necessary and expected by the parents of all of our students." Experience is a key factor when seeking a candidate for the school committee.

Personal history: Fenton has lived in Wilmington for 32 years. He is married to Patricia (Knott). They have three children. Philip, Jr., 12, is in the seventh grade at the West Intermediate. Lorilyn, 6, is in the first grade at the Shawheen Elementary. Michelle, 5, will be entering kindergarten in September at the Shawheen Elementary. Fenton has been a letter carrier with the U.S. Postal Service for 16 years. He attended Wilmington schools through his freshman year and graduated from Austin Prep in 1967. After four years of active duty with the U.S. Air Force in southeast Asia and England Phil returned home to Wilmington. Fenton is also a local real estate broker.

Fenton has been involved with the youth of the community for the past twelve years through scouting. He is the Scouting Coordinator for both Cub Scout Pack 136 and Boy Scout Troop 136 sponsored by the American Legion Post 136. Phil Fenton is a member of the American Legion Post 136, V.F.W. Post 2458, National Association of Letter Carriers Branch 25 and the Mass. Association of School Committees.

Fenton earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1979 from Merrimack College in North Andover.

"Education and children have always been very important to me. I've spent over half of my life involved with both education and children," he said.

Philosophy: Fenton feels that he has done a good job in the best interests of the children over the past six years and hopes to continue and improve the policies set by the School Committee. "We must strive to achieve an atmosphere which is conducive to the education of our children and one which will bring out the highest level of performance and achievement for each and every one of our students."

Fenton has always made himself available to all the townspeople and is always willing to listen to and seek the advice of those people he represents, the taxpayers and parents.

Jim Demos seeks return to Wilmington School Committee

Former Wilmington School Committeeman James Demos has announced his candidacy for a return to that board. Demos served three terms on the School Committee from 1972 to 1982.

As qualifications, Demos holds a bachelor's degree in business administration and education, and a master's degree in education, psychology and special education. He is in the final stages of completing his doctoral degree at Boston College, in the areas of administration, rehabilitation and special education.

Mr. Demos served as a teacher for nine years in the Wilmington and Chelmsford public schools, three years as executive director of a workshop for handicapped persons, and twelve years as administrator of special education in the cities of Lowell and Medford.

He is certified by the State Dept. of Education as teacher of business education, social studies and special education. Other state certification includes as a school psychologist, a principal at high school, junior high and elementary levels, and both superintendentship and assistant superintendentship of schools.

In his reasons for seeking election, Demos said, "Since the early 1970's, education as a priority in the minds of the public has declined. Therefore, funds for education have become more and more scarce. Prop.

2½ came very quickly, and education had to make sudden changes, such as reducing programs, staff and curriculum."

"The effects were such that the SAT scores continued to decline, young people are graduating from high school with limited daily life - working skills, and the morale of teachers and administrators dropped to a very low level. On the other hand, students' lack of discipline, drugs and alcohol involvement, attitude toward learning, respect for one's self and others has been on the rise. Thus, more demands are put on the school by the parents, community, and state agencies, such as the departments of Mental Health, Youth Services, courts, social services, businesses and colleges to produce capable, responsible and productive graduates."

"Because of all these demands being placed on education, which exceeds education's primary goal — that is, to only teach the three R's, reading, writing and arithmetic — we the public must place the education of our children as one of our top priorities. The Federal studies, "Nation at Risk" and "Educational Excellence" again focus on education and its importance to us and to our children's present and future."

"For more than two-thirds of my life thus far, I have been formally training myself in order to assist in the improvement of our children's education."

"With my professional background for the past 24 years as a teacher, school psychologist, school administrator and nine years as a former policy maker on the Wilmington School Committee, I believe that I can professionally contribute in the efforts to bring back confidence and the importance of our schools to the children and the public."

"I shall strongly support the renovation of our high school building in the areas of: science laboratories and classrooms, business education classrooms, library, industrial arts facilities, home economics facilities, music and art facilities, physical education facilities."

"I shall strongly support the upgrading of our curriculum (K-12). Here, I support a strong core curriculum to address the founder member of the Wilmington Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Rocco DePasquale seeks re-election as selectman

Originally elected to the Board of Selectmen in 1978, Rocco has served two, three-year terms in that office. In each term, he was elected chairman by his fellow board members. Rocco is proud of the improvements accomplished for the Town of Wilmington during his service as a selectman including:

1) completion of a prize-winning water treatment facility that insures an adequate supply of town water for the foreseeable future; 2) housing rehabilitation assistance for residents in the Silver Lake area; 3) the undertaking of a $1,000,000 extension of public sewers to areas with excessively high water tables; 4) establishment of a monitoring system to discover, report and correct dangerous chemical spills and odors; 5) consolidation of town departments for increased efficiency without high costs; particularly to improve the maintenance of our parks and playgrounds and 6) proposal of the underground tank task force which is now moving to monitor and test commercial chemical and fuel storage tanks in Wilmington.

Recognizing the need to update town regulations for greater protection of Wilmington residents, Rocco helped to establish and worked with the zoning bylaw study committee and the committee to study the inhabitant bylaws of the town, resulting in revised zoning and general bylaws.

He strongly supports both the hydrological study undertaken by the planning board and the efforts of the conservation commission to protect our present and future town water supplies. Wilmington is now equipped to protect this valuable resource from pollution and over-development.

Rocco successfully urged the installation of new water mains for North Wilmington residents and helped to form the hazardous waste committee. He showed the need for dispatchers at the fire station, which made all qualified firefighters available to respond to emergency calls. He has recognized the need for renovations and additions to the high school and was instrumental in re-establishing the permanent building committee. But, Rocco believes much more is needed to protect Wilmington and its residents, including:

1) additional housing for the elderly as a number one priority. "If we are successful in extending the town sewer to Deming Way, we could construct an additional 40-50 units for our older citizens." 2) extension of the town sewer to the Shawheen School to replace the failing sewer system. "This would provide a permanent solution to the problem and, at the same time, make additional sewer service available to a large number of neighborhood residents." 3) an Office of Community Development to provide both centralized control and centralized service for new construction and development; 4) redevelopment of Wilmington Center with State and Federal funds to enhance the tax base and correct the existing traffic congestion problems. Other public improvements deserving or priority include a fire department sub-station in North Wilmington; a traffic division for the police department to control, monitor and direct the serious traffic problems throughout the town; the establishment of a tax stabilization fund to finance capital outlays at lower cost to the town and a centralized purchasing system for all town departments and agencies.

John Forrest candidate for Board of Selectmen

Local businessman and 30-year resident John R. Forrest has announced his candidacy for the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

Forrest, owner of Forrest Mobil on Route 129, attended local schools and has worked as a mechanic in Wilmington for more than 15 years.

In announcing his candidacy, Forrest emphasized that he is not running just as a businessman, but as a dedicated resident and taxpayer who has a genuine interest in the welfare of all the residents of Wilmington.

"Up until the past several years, I have been just your average citizen, voting at the proper times, going to meetings when something was directly affecting my way of life; in short, not overly concerned myself with the issues that didn't directly affect me," he said.

"Increasingly in the last several years, I have become aware of many things that have happened in our town. Needless to say the older you become, the more you start thinking of the long term future. I do not like the direction the town of Wilmington is taking, and from what people have been telling me, there is most decidedly a "silent majority" in Wilmington who agree."

"The lack of housing for our elderly, the deplorable conditions at the high school, the abandoning of school buildings, and the raising of taxes are all issues which must be addressed."

I feel I am qualified to hold the position of selectman because I CARE about Wilmington and ALL its residents. I plan on residing in Wilmington through retirement. The Wilmington residents have supported me through my business. I now feel that I can support them by becoming a member of the board of selectmen. And, most of all, Wilmington is my town and I'm proud to say I live here. I realize that one person can't correct all the distasteful things in Wilmington, but with your support, I'll give it my all.

Let's give Wilmington back to the PEOPLE.

Selectman Jim Stewart seeks re-election

Jim Stewart has announced that he is running for re-election to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. The election will be held on Saturday, April 21.

Jim is a 1977 graduate of Wilmington High School and he received his bachelor's degree from Tufts University in 1981. A lifelong resident of Wilmington, he lives at 95 Middlesex Avenue and is employed in Wilmington as a sales representative for Altron Incorporated.

Since his election to the Board of Selectmen in 1982, Jim has been involved as: the selectmen's representative to the Permanent Building Committee; the organizer of the underground tanks committee to protect our water supply against contamination; co-chairman of the task force to obtain a water treatment plant in North Wilmington; a member of the Fourth of July Committee; a responsible selectman.

Jim is also involved in many civic activities in Wilmington. He is a member of the Little League Board of Directors as well as a Little League coach; a member of the Wilmington Athletic Club (WILMAC) Board of Directors; an active member of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon; the chairman of the Athletic and Recreation Fields Committee.

He feels there are many items of concern to the people of Wilmington: insured accreditation of Wilmington High School through a high school renovation along with continued improvement of the public education system; cleaner water for everyone through an additional water treatment plant in North Wilmington and aquifer protection zoning; additional housing for the seniors at Deming Way and - or the Buzzell School; alleviating the long standing traffic problem in town; continued reuse of town buildings and the revitalization of town parks and grounds such as the Glen Road School grounds and the Silver Lake area.

These are among the items that Jim Stewart has supported for the past two years and with your help will continue to support in the future.

Should you have any questions or comments, please call Jim Stewart at 658-2578.

'Joni' to be shown at First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church of Wilmington will present the inspirational movie Joni on Sunday evening, March 25 at 6 p.m. Admission is free.

Joni is the dramatic story of a young woman's struggle to find a useful life in the wake of a tragic accident which left her handicapped. According to her yearbook, her graduating class at Woodlawn Senior High School in Maryland had voted Joni Eareckson the "Most Athletic" girl in the senior class. She was not only active, but outstanding in a variety of sports, including ice hockey, baseball, basketball, and diving. Joni was also an excellent horsewoman, a winner at both trick and show riding. A month after graduation, diving from a raft in the shallow waters of Chesapeake Bay, she found her world had changed. Her had struck something solid and, in a fraction of a second, she had suffered a broken neck.

The film follows Joni's progress from the moment she became a quadriplegic. She survived the broken neck; she was alive. But she would never walk again, and against that she rebelled with all the quiet rage of her Scandinavian heritage. Every step along the road to recovery was an obstacle she refused to face — until, drawing on her faith in God, she saw a purpose to her existence and began the long, hard fight toward rehabilitation, not always winning, but never giving up.

In a powerful and dramatic film, the agonies, achievements, joys and hopes of Joni's experience are shared with the viewer. And the impact of its message is made even more outstanding by the performance of the star of the film: Joni Eareckson portraying herself.

A title for the ages

Wildcats play for themselves, those that never got there

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Wilmington High School's Wildcats are just one victory away from a Division II State Championship that would cap six years of outstanding high school hockey at the school. In a sense, this championship would belong not only to the 1983-84 squad, but to the teams of the past six seasons that have played under coach Bill Cullen.

Five of those six teams have qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament, but none have reached the championship contest at the Boston Garden. Thursday night (March 15, 5:15), Wilmington (17-3-2) will take the legendary Garden ice to battle Catholic Central League champion Christopher Columbus (17-1-0) for the title.

"We've had some very good teams over the past six years," noted Cullen Monday night after reviewing films of the Wildcats' 5-4 semifinal victory over Franklin. "We've qualified for the tourney five times, but unfortunately some of those kids didn't have the luck to go to the Garden."

"It's a wonderful thing for the kids in Wilmington to get a chance to go to the Garden," offered the WHS coach.

Wilmington's Garden Party was made possible by victories over Concord Carlisle (3-1), Hanover (5-2) and pre-tournament favorite Franklin (5-4). The Franklin victory was especially satisfying, in that a year ago it was the Franklin club that emerged with a 5-4 semifinal win over Wilmington.

Thursday, however, the Wildcats will be facing their toughest test of the tournament. After a rather shaky opening game win, Wilmington has rebounded to play the style of hockey that made them one of the top teams in the Merrimack Valley Conference over this past season.

Tight checking, taking the body, opportunistic goal scoring and the steady play of goaltenders Don Gunn (1.83 season average) and Bill Wolfe (2.11) have keyed the Wildcats' postseason surge.

Cullen admits that Columbus, with a higher tourney seed, rates as the title game favorite. One of the keys to a WHS victory will be containing Columbus' two big guns, captain Jim Vesey (26-40-66) and junior Brian Ward (25-11-36). Vesey ranked third in Division II scoring.

"They like to keep Vesey out high and float him out near their defensive blue line," noted Cullen. "Then they send Ward in hard to get the puck to Vesey."

Junior Columbus goalie Bob Cuddyer came up with some key stops in a 7-5 tourney win over Tewksbury, but Wilmington has noticed that he can be bothered by screens. So look for some bodies in front of the Columbus crease Thursday.

While Cullen is concerned with the two prime Columbus goal scorers, the team does have some other players who can put the puck in the net. Senior Chris Cunniff (13-20-33), junior Bill Nolan (16-17-33) and junior Allan Caparella (10-13-23) all had good seasons. Other top Columbus players include senior Paul Wrenn (11-12-23) and senior defenseman Paul Beatty (4-9-13) and captain Chris Folen.

Wilmington has been getting solid play from just about everyone on the squad. Columbus should be very concerned with seniors Dennis Moran (22-29-51), Dean Athanasia (16-19-35) and Brian Tully (15-14-29).

The team has been getting top notch efforts from defensemen Kevin Cullivan (2-15-17), Dante DeMarco, and David Fuller. Perhaps the heart and soul of this team throughout the postseason has been the rugged work of David Richards (3-7-10), Jay Barrett, Bill Woods (7-7-14) and the Robbins boys, Brian (5-5-10) and Scott (8-6-14).

With three solid lines and the possibility of a fourth featuring the versatile Barrett, the Wildcats boast surprising depth that could work in their favor Thursday.

Goaltending is always vital in tourney play, and the Cats have no complaints with the work of Gunn and Wolfe. The senior Gunn has chalked up wins over Concord-Carlisle and Franklin, while the junior Wolfe was instrumental in the Hanover victory.

Gunn in fact saved the team in that first win, while Cullen notes that Gunn "came up with some really good saves late in the Franklin game."

The two have alternated regularly all year, and as of Monday night Cullen had not made a decision as to who his starting netminder would be Thursday. "We might even go with two goalies and let how the game goes dictate who does the goaltending," noted Cullen.

Cullen said that his team was not really tight three days before the game. Come Thursday however, this team and the town will be pumped up and ready for a skate around the Garden ice with the Division II championship plaque.

How will his team have to play in order to take that plaque back to Wilmington? "We're going to have to play out of our minds," admits the WHS coach. "I think that is precisely what will happen Thursday night in Wilmington if this team wins. Precisely."

WHS tickets

Tickets to the Eastern Mass. Division II Hockey Tournament championship game between Wilmington and Christopher Columbus Thursday at Boston Garden (5:15 p.m.) will be on sale at Wilmington High Athletic Director Jim Gillis' office this Wednesday (March 15). Tickets may be purchased between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

All tickets bought at the school will cost $3.00, while all tickets purchased at the Garden box office will cost $5.00. Bus tickets to the game will also be on sale.

Wildcat rush

Wilmington High School senior Brian Tully (11) leads a rush during his team's 5-2 victory over Hanover. Tully and the Wildcats will play for the Division II championship Thursday night at the Boston Garden.

DeMarco defense

Defenseman Dante DeMarco (22) has been a big factor in the Wildcats' surge to the tournament title game, taking faceoffs and playing some rugged defense along the way.

Joy at WHS

Dean Athanasia (arms raised) celebrates a Wilmington goal in the team's 5-2 victory over Hanover. Wilmington has posted tourney wins over Concord-Carlisle, Hanover and defending champ Franklin enroute to Thursday night's championship showdown at the Boston Garden.

Wilmington set for championship

Wildcats wipeout fate, Franklin

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

Fate had nothing to do with it. Wilmington High School's hockey team is on a roll, and even fate is wiped out in the face of a team playing some of the best hockey in the state.

A year ago Franklin sent the Wildcats packing in an Eastern Mass. Tournament semifinal game with a 5-4 victory.

Saturday night at Boston University's Walter Brown Arena, that semifinal score was reversed, with the Wildcats holding off a late Franklin charge for a 5-4 win and a berth in this Thursday night's (March 15, 5:15 p.m.) championship game with Christopher Columbus at the Boston Garden.

While Wilmington failed to hold on last year, this season they would not be denied in what was a deju-vu setting if there ever was one, with the game being played on the same night of the week, against the same team in the same building. This Wilmington club sneered at fate, deju-vu, whatever it was, and kicked it right in the teeth.

"Was I ever concerned," admitted coach Bill Cullen, who is coaching his fifth tourney team in six years at the Wilmington helm. "Coming down the stretch, we just stopped skating and let them back into the game."

Wilmington looked to be in control for most of the way, leading 2-1 after two periods and widening the gap to 4-1 with less than 10 minutes left to play. Then the top-seeded defending Division II champs took flight and gave the locals quite a scare.

With 4:34 left in the game the score read 4-3, and with 54 ticks to go, Franklin pulled its netminder in an attempt to net the equalizer.

Wilmington senior Dennis Moran then appeared to put the game on ice with a 100 foot shot into an empty net for a 5-3 WHS advantage.

Not over yet
This contest was not over yet however, as Franklin scored again with nine seconds left and forced a faceoff in the WHS zone with two seconds remaining before the game mercifully ended.

The late game heat was Franklin's best flurry of the contest. The Panthers failed to fire a shot on Wilmington senior goalie Don Gunn in the second period, and went over 22 straight minutes in the second and third periods without a shot on net.

Wilmington simply forechecked Franklin to death, holding the losers to just nine shots for the game. "The entire team played well really," noted Cullen. "They'd take one stride and we were all over them."

Game plan perfection

The Wildcats wore down the Panthers with three, sometimes four lines. Huge senior defenseman Kevin Cullivan was also a key, muscling and banging Panther players off the puck. Cullivan and fellow defenseman Dante DeMarco helped to hold Franklin's Matt McQuissan in check, with the lone exception being a first period goal by the Panther senior that gave his team a 1-0 edge.

Wildcats take lead

The Wildcats broke out on top 2-1 in the second period on goals by Cullivan (power play, 3:41) and senior Jay Barrett unassisted at 9:26.

Another power play early in the final period sent the Wildcats up 3-1, as Cullivan scored again just 31 seconds into the stanza when he slipped home a rebound off a Dennis Moran slapshot. Moran and Dean Athanasia (three assists apiece) picked up the WHS helpers.

Commanding 4-1 lead

Wilmington took what seemed like a commanding 4-1 lead at 3:17 when senior Brian Tully pumped one past Franklin goalie Kevin Tattrie.

Franklin began its' charge on goals by Brian Assad (40th) at 5:17 and Chris Spillane (31st) at 10:26.

The Franklin goals were the first two shots on Gunn in the third period, but Cullen noted the WHS senior played his second solid game of the tournament none-the-less.

Franklin's Phil Guidrey just missed knotting the contest when he rang a shot off the post. Moran's goal into the open net made it 5-3 before Bill McCarron scored at 14:51. "Gunn actually made a couple of good saves before Franklin's fourth goal," offered Cullen afterwards.

Cullen admitted that the final seconds seemed like an eternity Saturday. "But these kids just stick together. They really believe in themselves", noted the Wilmington coach.

Fate be damned. Wilmington won this game, and can win this championship on talent and hard work alone.

Despite Division III title game loss

Rams establish some tradition

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

The Shawsheen Tech round-ballers of the past two seasons established a winning basketball tradition at a school that had long been known strictly for its hockey prowess. And even with the hockey team playing for a state championship the same day, at close to the same time (in Boston no less), the Rams' hoopsters still drew a crowd that was greatly appreciative of this team with talent.

Unfortunately, like last year, the Rams fell short in the title game, dropping a 53-42 decision to Bishop Fenwick in the Division III championship game played at Methuen High School Saturday afternoon.

Rams shoot cold

The Rams normally red-hot shooters finished and ended the game in the freezer, while Fenwick seemed to catch fire at just the right time.

Tech shot just 28 percent from the floor over the first two periods to trail 23-18 at halftime. The team charged back to a 30-30 third quarter tie after falling behind earlier in that period, but the final stanza saw more of the same cold shooting as Fenwick pulled away for the victory.

The Rams shot just 31 percent for the game, with a miserable 7 for 25 first half performance, as they scored a season low 18 points. All this coming after the Rams burned the nets in a 61-41 semifinal rout of St. Clements that sent them flying into the championship tilt.

While the outside shots weren't falling, the tight Fenwick zone defense was largely responsible for shutting down any inside cutters and banging the boards, thus cutting down on the Tech's fastbreak attack.

Fenwick packs in defense

Fenwick packed big men Tony Aloï (6'5") and Sean Ginley (6'2") close to the bucket when the Rams began missing after taking an early first period lead. No Tech player cut to the basket untouched, and Wilmington's Bob Sgroso (11 points), center Tony Melton (10) and forward Rob MacInnis (13) all finished under their season average.

MacInnis did heat up at one stretch in the third period. His shooting, coupled with a zone press, bothered Fenwick into an eventual 30-30 standoff at the end of the period. Fenwick scored just seven points in that third stanza.

Fenwick takes control

Fenwick showed signs of taking control early in the fourth period when the lid again locked tight over the Shawsheen basket.

After the Rams fell behind, the fouling began, with Fenwick taking advantage with a solid 13 for 15 performance from the charity stripe.

Fenwick was cool under pressure, as the Rams pressure defense had little or no effect late in the game.

Coach Ron Nowakowski's Rams, who lost to Swampscott, 70-57 in this game a year ago, have every right to be very proud of the past two seasons. The Rams finished at 21-2 overall, giving them a 40-6 mark over the past two seasons.

The team also produced some solid basketball talent in point guard Brian Bouthillette, off-guard Sgroso and big men Melton, MacInnis, Mark Simolaris and Larry Berrigan. Fenwick (18-3), under coach

Dana Skinner, won its first ever Division III title, and now moves on to tangle with league rival Cardinal Spellman (24-0) in the EMass championship tonight (March 14) at Brandeis University.

Rams blitz St. Clements

The Rams quickly wiped out a 10-4 lead by the Somerville school and managed to negate Melton's (7 points, five rebounds) foul trouble enroute to the victory.

The key to the win was the play of reserve big men Larry Berrigan (11 rebounds, 2 blocks) and Mark Simolaris.

The Tech fastbreak was in high gear behind point guard Bouthillette (7 points, nine assists), Sgroso (18 points, 10 in the fourth quarter) and MacInnis (21 points, nine rebounds).

The win set the stage for the showdown with a Fenwick team that just edged Ipswich, 50-49 in their semifinal game.

North Reading Basketball camp

The third annual North Reading Basketball Camp will be held at North Reading High School July 23-27. The camp will again be under the direction of North Reading High School basketball coach Barry Kipnes. Other members of the staff will be Rich Butterworth of Hamilton-Wenham High School, Mike McVeigh and Barry Humphreys of North Andover High School and Tom Gallagher of Chelmsford High School. The camp day will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The camp is for boys entering grades seven, eight and nine, and will place heavy emphasis on fundamentals. All areas of individual play will be covered, and games will be played every day. Enrollment is limited to allow for ample playing time and attention to each camper.

In the past two years campers have attended from Chelmsford, Lynnfield, Methuen, Newburyport, North Reading, Peabody, Tewksbury, Wakefield and Wilmington.

Tuition for the week is only $75.00 dollars, which includes a camp t-shirt, certificate of attendance, fundamentals handbook and coach's evaluation for each camper.

For a brochure or more information, call Barry Kipnes at 664-2471 or write Barry Kipnes, B-1 Colonial Drive, Andover, Ma 01810.

Melton, MacInnis spark Rams

Shawsheen Tech center Tony Melton drives in for two points during his team's 53-42 Division III championship game loss to Bishop Fenwick Saturday. Looking on is Tewksbury's Rob MacInnis (33), whose hot third quarter shooting helped to get the Rams back in the game.

Clinch Division III championship

Shawsheen's time finally comes, 5-3

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

After 11 tournament appearances in 12 years, it was safe to say that their time had come.

The Shawsheen Tech Rams' hockey club now has a championship to go along with over a decade of hockey excellence, as coach Bill Gordon's boys recorded their first-ever EMass Division III State Championship with a thrilling 5-3 come-from-behind victory over Dartmouth Saturday afternoon at Walter Brown Arena.

Shawsheen completed its season unblemished at 21-0-1, making them the lone undefeated hockey team in the state. The Rams also claim the Division III State Title as well, as their is no Central or Western Mass playoffs in their division.

Three third period goals propelled the Rams to the victory, wiping out a 3-2 Dartmouth advantage. High-scoring senior Mike Giuggio was again top gun for the champs, netting three goals and assisting on Rod Murphy's game winner.

Dartmouth scores first

Dartmouth scored first at 6:10 of the opening period when Paul Maccini popped a goal home unassisted.

Giuggio (80 points) tied the game at 12:10 of the first period when he fired home a blast from the top of the slot. Chris Jones and Murphy registered the Tech assists.

Todd Doyle sent the Indians ahead again at 2-1 with a powerplay goal at 1:17 of the second period. The score capped a wild scramble in front of Rams' goalie Dan Shea, who finished the game with 19 saves.

Giuggio's second goal of the contest tied it at 2-2 (11:22, second period), with Dan Small notching the assist.

Rams attack takes off

Shawsheen fell behind for the final time at 3-2 (13:43, second period) when Doyle tipped home a power play slapshot from the point.

The ever-potent Tech attack finally took off just 33 seconds into period three when Jones pocketed a short power play backhand off a Kevin Lambert assist.

Murphy notched the game winner at 6:35 of the period, with assists to Lambert and Giuggio. Giuggio pocketed the insurance score with 5:55 left, skating out of the corner and lifting the disc over Dartmouth goalie Doug Leandro's pads.

Defense protects lead

Shawsheen's defense then took over, as the champs outshot Dartmouth 11-3 for the remainder of the game.

Leandro made 12 first period stops and finished with 30 for the game. Overall, Shawsheen held a 35-22 shots on goal advantage.

The Rams last defeat was a 5-4 overtime setback to Triton Regional in last year's tournament. If any team appeared to be on a championship mission, it was Shawsheen, a hockey club that will rank with one of the very best in Division III hockey history.

Club goes for the 'Green' Saturday

The Wilmington Tennis Club is warming up for its 1984 season with a 'Green' tennis bash, Saturday March 17, 8 p.m. at the Woburn Racquet Club. All club members and any resident interested in playing tennis will be most welcome. The cost is $6.00, and signups are with Joanie O'Beirne at 658-9740. There is a limit, so call early and remember to go 'wearing the green'.

The tennis club elected new officers last fall, and will continue its active tennis program. A spring mixer is planned, as well as a member-guest tournament in June. Singles, doubles, mixed doubles and junior boys and girls tennis ladders are maintained all summer, as well as clinics and fall tournaments.

This year's officers are all familiar faces in the tennis club. At the helm as the new president is the former Medford High School and Bentley College basketball great Chris Arciero (captain 66' and 70').

Linda Gedney, the new vice president, is one of the top women players, with several championships to her credit. Linda was an officer several years ago, and has always been very active in the club. Janet Cahill became an officer for the first time this year as the club's new treasurer. She has been the women's single ladder coordinator for two years, and has played on the singles, doubles and mixed doubles ladders. Janet is a graduate of Albertus Magnus College and a former

Eighth graders slap Haverhill, 50-40

Wilmington recently entered its seventh and eighth grade teams in the Pepsi Challenge Basketball Tournament held in Lawrence, with both teams winning their first games. They ran into bad luck in the semifinals, as the seventh graders lost by one point to the Lawrence Boys' Club and the eighth graders were trounced by St. Christopher's of Nashua.

Thursday night the eighth graders played a nine o'clock game against the Haverhill Boys' Club, coming away with a nifty 50-40 victory. This was the same team the Wildcats beat earlier in the season with second basket. Thursday's game was low scoring, as Haverhill held the lead, 22-19 at the half and led by one at the three-quarter mark, before the junior Wildcats turned on the heat in the final frame, jumping on top for the 50-40 final. Leading the scoring was Mike Lombard with 20 points. Pat Nally sank 14 points in his first full game since missing four games with an injury. Eric Penttinen, Don Corson and Danny Woods each had four points. Joe McMenimen and Kevin Ouellette had two each. Lombard also led the rebounding action with 12 boards while also making two steals and blocking two shots. McMenimen added four rebounds, Nally two and Ouellette one. DeSantis and Maiella stole the ball once each. Tim Moran, Tim Fay, Tom Moran, DeSantis and Maiella anchored a stubborn defense.

Saturday morning the seventh graders trounced St. Joseph's of Salem, N.H., 38-18. The scoring for Wilmington was well spread out, as Steve Hanafin hit for nine, Jeff Bowen seven (all from the foul line), Brian Davis six, Jason Oliver and Andy Parr four each, Jon Masse two, Brian Pupa two, Ron Pennie two and Neil Penttinen two. Hanafin led the rebounding action with 12, Masse followed with seven, Parr picked off three, with Buonopane, Bowen, Pupa, Vigliotti and Penttinen all pulling in one board apiece. Ron Pennie led the defensive corps with three steals along with Jeff Botte, Mike Buonopane, and Mark Vigliotti. Mark Palmissano was injured during the game.

Sunday morning the seventh graders opened with a nailbiter, as the Lawrence Boys' Club edged them out by one point, 32-31. Jon Masse led the scoring with 10 points and pulled in 12 rebounds. Steve Hanafin was next with nine, Jeff Bowen sank four and Jason Oliver hit one. Steve Hanafin added seven rebounds and Bowen grabbed two. The ball hawking was led by Andy Parr with two steals, along with Oliver and Botte with one each. Also manning the defense was Mike Buonopane, Brian Pupa and Jeff Botte.

Sunday's 2 p.m. game found St. Christopher's of Nashua catching the eighth graders on an off day, as they overpowered the locals at both ends of the court, 55-37. In their game, the eighth graders just couldn't seem to get untracked. The leading scorer for Wilmington was Joe McMenimen with 14 points, followed by Mike Lombard with nine and Eric Penttinen with eight. Pat Nally, Tony DeSantis and Tim Moran each scored two. Olympic Road Race April 1

Attention all runners, now is your chance Run for the Gold for the Olympic champions. On April 1, 'Olympic Sunday' in Reading, the first official 'Olympic Road Race' will be run for the benefit of the United States Olympic Teams.

All entrants are welcome, as there will be two races, a two mile fun run and a 6.2 (10K) road race. There are many road races, but none that will benefit both the runner as well as our Olympic Teams at the same time. All entry fees are tax deductible, plus the first 1500 male and 1500 female entrants will receive t-shirts.

There will be several prizes in many categories, so everyone will get a chance to win warmup suits, clock radios, gift certificates, children's toys and running outfits. Trophies will be awarded to the first three male and female finishers in each category, beginning in the 10 and under group. Each runner will receive a participant ribbon.

The finish will be computerized, so that the actual running times will be available to all entrants. Many present and former Olympians are trying to arrange their schedules to be part of the festivities.

The entry fees are $2.00 for the fun race and $6.00 pre-registration for the 6.2 mile race. ($8.00 the day of the race). For course information and/or entry forms, call the Reading Gymnastics Academy at 944-2277, the official host for this event. The course will use all main roads, and this race has been sanctioned by TAC.

Anne Linehan candidate for School Committee

Mrs. Anne D. Linehan, 21 Dadant Dr., Wilmington, has announced she is a candidate for the Wilmington School Committee. Anne has been a resident of Wilmington for 17 years and is the wife of Jeffrey A. Linehan, a former Navy officer and professional engineer, past president of the Wilmington Kiwanis.

Jeff and Anne are the parents of three children. Jeffrey Michael 19, a student at Bridgewater State College (majoring in communication arts), Mary Winifred, 18, attending the School of Engineering, Boston University and Joseph Edward 13, a student at Wilmington's North Intermediate School. Anne has a daughter Evelyn, 35, who resides in Dallas and she is the grandmother of Evelyn's two children Shean and Celeste.

A graduate of Beaumont High School, Southwest Business College and various continuing educational seminars and courses, Mrs. Linehan feels her parenting role is perhaps her best qualification to serve on the board. She has been a successful publisher, reporter and account executive in advertising and sales promotion.

Why did Anne decide to run for school committee? She stated at a recent parents' meeting "the slogan printed on the bottom of the Wilmington School Committee stationery states 'to work for the future of our children.' I am beginning to wonder about that statement lately and the sincerity of some of the current school board members. Since the disgraceful episode of hiring a new high school principal I have continued doubts about the actions of our current school committee.

Is it working for the future of our children?

Mrs. Linehan went on to say "The character assignment of Dr. Carol Sager was and is uncalled for and has served no purpose toward resolving the issue of a permanent principal for Wilmington High. This position should have been reported last summer and a permanent principal hired before the starting of this school year."

"Yes, we do need a new 'permanent' high school principal and this position should be posted and filled before this school year is out. We must begin next year at the high school with a clear director and someone with authority and backing serving at the helm."

When asked about her credentials for being a member of the school committee Mrs. Linehan was quick to reply that she has been involved in the rearing and education of children for 29 years. First, as a single parent of her daughter Evelyn who was a member of the National Honor Society, graduated with honors and went on to a successful career in personnel and business management.

"Being a single parent was tough, and I would not wish this situation on anyone, but the experience taught me that the hardship of that role can also be rewarding. My daughter Evelyn is a fine example. She was an excellent student, a varsity athlete and was motivated toward personal satisfaction and achievement."

The Wilmington school system offers a good education, but your children cannot achieve their full potential without a great deal of effort. I feel more parents and fewer educational professionals should be serving on the board. Our present school committee consists of four teaching professionals (including one aspiring politician), one retired newspaper editor and one postal employee.

We can hire professionals to run the school, but we need more parents interested in monitoring the system and being sure the "professionals" are listening to us. Parents working in partnership with the professional educators must be involved with regard to spending, school policies and building programs.

The priorities of the school committee would be the renovation and upgrading of the high school; hiring a permanent high school principal; the reorganization of our Career Counseling Department; and the rising problem of drug and alcohol abuse among the student population. All this must be done at a policy making level.

Quality education, of course, should be the main priority of any school system. We do not need, nor can we afford, a "sports complex."

I realize, as a parent of three varsity athletes and one coming up, that athletics must be and should always be an important part of the educational system, but I repeat, quality education must be the priority.

I hope you will vote for me and I would appreciate any support you can give, donations, running a coffee, asking your friends to vote for me and remembering me in your prayers.

Demos

needs of all our children, including college bound students, business students, vocational students, other general career-bound students, special needs students and gifted students.

"I shall make every effort as a policy maker to assure that our profession educators in our schools are recognized as being an important part of our town and most important of our children's education."

"I shall support and encourage our professional staff to further expand their educational expertise in order to benefit our children's education."

"I shall encourage the establishment of the fourth R in educational curriculum, which shall address responsibility — including critical thinking, decision making, problem solving, recognizing and social responsibilities, such as lack of concern for others, anger, aggression, general disrespect, sarcasm, verbal abuse, and willingness to hurt self and others."

"In summary, I am running: - because of my professional training and professional involvement in the field of education.

- because I have been living in the town of Wilmington for more than 22 years.

- because I have three children in the Wilmington schools.
- because I am proud of our community.
- and most importantly, I honestly believe that we have an obligation to our children — as our parents and grandparents did for us — to provide a good and appropriate education that will help them all become productive.

By being on the Wilmington School Committee, I shall be representing and protecting our community's most important product — our children's education."

Tours of high school offered

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held in the Town Hall Annex, Middlesex Avenue, in the office of the Conservation Commission on Wednesday, March 21, 1984, at 9:00 p.m., in compliance with the provisions of Mass. G.L. Chapter 131, section 40, as amended on the application of Howland Development Company, 10 Atlantic Avenue, Woburn, Massachusetts, to construct an industrial warehouse with related drainage and parking, to fill wetland for railroad access under a limited project, and to fill 5,000 sq. ft. of wetland, providing compensating storage and retention areas. Land shown on Assessor's Map 24, Parcel 209A, Jewell Drive.

Conservation Comm.

Podiatrist

Dr. Leavitt, podiatrist will be at the Drop-in Center Friday morning, March 16, from 9:00 to noon. He will check and treat troubles of the foot and ankle. Seniors should remember to take along their Medicaid, Medicare and Medex cards when arriving for treatment and should try to be early. Those arriving too close to noon will not be treated.

Bowling program

The senior citizen bowling program is held at the Candlepin Lanes, North Reading every Wednesday afternoon beginning at 1:30. This is another exercise program to keep seniors active and healthy. Anyone wishing to take part need only show up at the Lanes Wednesday.

Nurse at the Center Thursday

The nurse will be at the center Thursday, March 15 from 1:30 p.m. to give the diabetes test and check blood pressures. When arriving for health clinics, it is necessary to get a number at the office. Seniors are advised to adhere to this rule. It is set up for the convenience of all seniors and it will be appreciated if the rule is followed.

Transportation notes

The Council on Aging provides transportation to doctors, dentists, hospitals, Social Security office, welfare office and other elderly related travel within a 13 mile radius of Wilmington. Wilmington is a town with a large number of older citizens who have no transportation available to them. This situation places a heavy demand on the senior minibus. It is only a van, not a taxi. When called for a pickup, an attempt is made to get seniors to an appointment on time and home again as quickly as possible. Seniors must remember others are calling at the same time for their appointments. Wilmington covers 17 square miles and a senior could live at any end of the town. It would help if when making an appointment with a doctor, seniors would try to check whether another Wilmington senior has an appointment that week, and make theirs at the same day.

The Middlesex Fells

4,000 wonderful acres of woods

By JOE FLAHERTY

There are 4,000 wonderful acres of rough woodland that sit above Melrose, Stoneham, Winchester, Medford, and Malden. And while these Middlesex Fells hold the site of no crucial Revolutionary War battle, they do indeed have a story all their own, from the mundane of illegal wrestling matches on Spot Pond's Great Island, to a forgotten village.

But of even greater significance, they are there now to enjoy. With miles of winding horse trails, isolated footpaths, scenic ledges, and picturesque brooks, ponds, and reservoirs, the MDC-run Middlesex Fells is easily one of the most beautiful open spaces in eastern Massachusetts.

The land was never permanently settled because of the hilly terrain, and because much of it, though originally privately owned farm land, was soon pieced together with great hindsight by local nature-lovers in the 1800s. That hope for a public reservation that could provide green refuge from society, never to be touched by developers, yet not far from Boston, was realized.

The leading figure in this venture was Medford's Elizur Wright. Wright, who lived for a time on the reservation's Pine Hill (atop which sits Wright's Tower, in clear view of Interstate 93), was an insurance man and abolitionist. The purpose of a reservation would be for recreation and for a water supply. With the assistance of people in the surrounding communities, even some in Boston, naturalists such as John Owen and Wilson Flagg, and the Appalachian Club, the idea received political approval. Wright bombarded the Boston papers with articles on the subject, and organized nature hikes and forest festivals not only to garner interest and support, but simply for greater appreciation of the environment.

Private owners were bought out, and the 1882 Forestry Law granted protection for the Fells. In 1894, the Spot Pond woods became the Middlesex Fells Reservation.

But while the Fells are used now for recreation, they were once needed for survival. To the early settler, whose primary interest was logging, the Fells were known as "The Rocks" — the wild northern section of what was then Charlestown. And these woods did indeed supply the early settlers with plenty of lumber the next couple of hundred years.

Deer, turkeys, wolves, bears, and even Indians lived there — although the Indian population, mostly Agawome and Naamkeek, quickly diminished. The last Indian, Hannah Shiner, who lived in a hut in the woods, drowned in December 1820 in Winchester's Aberjona River.

It was on Feb. 7, 1632, that the centerpiece of the Middlesex Fells, Spot Pond, was discovered — at least officially. Named for the many boulders that lined its shore, Spot Pond was stumbled upon by Governor John Winthrop, the state's first leader, and his party. And, as is well-documented, the group forgot bread for the journey and had only cheese for lunch on Stoneham's nearby Bear Hill. The boulder near where they ate was then named "Cheese Rock," of course.

The sparkling blue waters of the pond, encircled with dark green woods and hills, casts a beautiful reflection any time of day. But it holds sunsets especially well.

The pond itself became a public water source in 1870. Until then, it had been the focal point of a number of French chateau style houses built by Boston's rich and, through the Spot Pond Brook, the lifeline of a small mill-village on the wooded hillside on the northeast corner of the pond.

The small present-day restaurant at the corner of West Wyom-ing Ave. and the Fellsway, on the Stoneham-Melrose border, changed its name in 1980 from the Jerry Jingle Restaurant to the Haywardville Restaurant. Just a couple of hundred yards away, across the Fellsway and up into the woods, was Haywardville — the small mill-village powered by the brook, which now flows at a quieter rate.

All that is left now are two bridges of stone and wood that cross the brook — a pair of waterfalls, and just up the path, the chimney of William Nicklefield's house — originally built in the 1790s.

The lonely chimney is now surrounded by trees, a path leading up to it. But while the Spot Pond Pumping Station is just a stone's throw away, Haywardville is a hundred years away.

There are tales of a British sailor named Hadley leaving his ship docked in Charlestown around 1640, finding his way naked through the woods to Haywardville, and meeting a man named Gould who hid him under his grist mill floor when the Red Coats came searching. Hadley settled there, once fought off a pack of wolves with an ax, and eventually was killed in war. Before his death, however, Hadley married one of the daughters of Richard Holden, an Englishman who helped start Haywardville.

Holden is said to have built the first house in Stoneham on Bear Hill's south slope around 1640.

And there are tales of feuds with farmers from the pond's north shore over a dam built to control the brook. The farmers complained that the dam flooded their fields, and sent youths with picks and axes to smash the dam by night. The equally upset villagers would rebuild the dam by day, and in 1783 were finally forced to build a guardhouse.

By the 19th century, there were saw mills, grist mills, snuff mills, chocolate mills and spice mills along the Spot Pond Brook. Haywardville was, in its own way, flourishing.

It was still quiet when Nicklefield built a house, barn, and mill on land purchased from Ebenezer Bucknam, who owned a house, a spice mill, and a brass foundry on the stream's opposite bank.

First annual elderly only nutrition "Recipe Contest"

How can older people learn how to modify their favorite recipes so that their diets are of higher nutritional quality and have fun at the same time? They can participate in Mystic Valley Elder Services first annual New Horizons-New Nutrition Recipe Contest and Cook-Off. The event, open to elders who attend lunch sites in Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, and Wakefield, will be held on April 11, 1984 at the Everett Armory.

"The purpose of the contest," according to Ms. Andrea Kingsley, Mystic Valley Elder Services Nutritionist, "is to demonstrate that favorite recipes can be altered to reduce the amount of fat, cholesterol, sodium and sugar by substituting other ingredients, without significantly altering the taste". Ms. Kingsley will review each recipe submitted for nutritional value and will conduct "Recipe Clinics" at area lunch sites as needed.

Contestants who have altered recipes to reflect higher nutritional value will be invited to participate in the Cook-Off where their creations will be sampled by a panel of celebrity judges. First, second and third prize winners will be selected in each of four categories: main dish, bread vegetable-salad and dessert. First prize winners in each of the categories will have the opportunity to enter their recipe in the state-wide Cook-Off to be held in June. In addition, daka, the Mystic Valley Elder Services meal site caterer, will be preparing appropriate first prize winning dishes to be served as a meal to all nutrition project participants at some point during the coming year.

For additional information contact Ms. Andrea Kingsley at Mystic Valley Elder Services, 324-7705.

The monumental cost of college

FM TALK: A week's worth of ruminations:

The expense of putting a son or daughter through college can drive any parent — even a fairly well-to-do one — clear to the poorhouse. Now comes news from Money magazine that parents of newborns this year will be faced with even more monumental expenses when their children are ready for college in the year 2002. Currently four years at a public institution of higher learning cost in the neighborhood of $20,300. At the present rate of inflation four years at a state school are going to cost $51,400 by 2002. Four years at a private college currently run about $36,400. In eighteen years it is expected that they will cost $91,900. If you're planning to send your child to Harvard, which presently costs $63,400 for four years, count on shelling out $160,100 in 2002.

Once the financial hassles of attending college are out of the way, actually being there can be a lot of fun. Increasingly so for women, says Jacqueline Simenauer, author of "Singles:

The New Americans," who are experiencing the joys — and

Volleyball marathon at Field House

Century 21 has announced that it is sponsoring the Third Annual Volleyball Marathon to benefit the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society on March 16 at the Reading High School Field House. This Marathon will raise funds for children and adults with disabilities in the Northeast area of the state.

The Century 21 Easter Seal Volleyball Marathon is open to groups of people from business, corporations, schools, clubs and organizations, as well as competitive league teams. Matched with teams of like ability, teams will compete for trophies and prizes, playing in categories of men, women or coed. Each team will play three games in an hour-and-a-half time period.

This Week's Poems

Leprechauns are little men
Hiding in their little den
Sleeping in their little beds
Tucking in their little heads

But they have one thing that is not little
Actually much bigger than a fiddle
Under many many trees

Completely unseen by you and me
Are pots and pots and pots of gold
That they have never never sold.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

This is the Day of the Shamrock,
And tho they've never been seen,
'Tis the day when the wee folks venture out
Wearing their bit o' green

So watch where you step when you go out
And look very carefully
For they may be hiding under a leaf
Or perched upon a tree

I've never seen the likes o' them
But I know that they're around
'Cause I've heard the lilt of their laughter
And saw footprints on the ground

They live among the fairies,
Or so I have been told
And they play and sing
the whole day long
And never, never grow old

This is the Day of the Shamrock
And the friendly way to greet
Is to bid a Top O' the Mornin'
To everyone you meet sometimes the pitfalls — of a new trend in dating: asking men out on dates instead of waiting around to be asked. Simenauer's research indicates that women are most likely to get a yes from college men ages 20 — 24 who have never walked down the aisle to say "I do." She notes that these young men grew up in an era when female assertiveness and women's liberation were not subject of fiery debates. According to Simenauer, these young men are not likely to feel their masculinity is being threatened simply because a member of the opposite sex asks them out on a date.

College-aged men aren't the only good prospects for women looking to ask guys out on a date. Simenauer discovered that men 45-55 years old who have never been married or who have been divorced for a few years, are well-educated and have solid careers that provide comfortable incomes are also terrific prospects. Apparently these older men are so secure that they are also not likely to become uptight when a woman asks them out on a date. Simenauer claims that women are most likely to find professional men ages 35-44 who grew up during the period of radical social changes poor prospects. She feels these men are often torn between old-fashioned views and contemporary standards, and are unlikely to be flexible enough to accept a woman asking them out.

Wakefield doctor announces

Health Plan for pets

Dr. Peter Coakley of the Animal Hospital of Wakefield would like to announce the availability of a personalized health maintenance plan for pets. With the cost of medical care rising in veterinary medicine as it is in the human sector, preventive maintenance is even more important today than it was in the past. Yearly examinations, routine tests when indicated and a regular vaccination program are true preventive medicine.

With this health care plan, all the above routine procedures will be done at a greatly reduced cost to you. In the event medical, surgical or diagnostic tools are necessary, especially as your pet gets older, these services will be offered at reduced rates to plan participants.

Dr. Coakley is pleased to be able to offer this service to the community. At long last he will be able to give your pets the same comprehensive medical services you enjoy. It is his hope that the pet owning public will take advantage of the preventative care available through this plan. Also, as an added convenience for area residents, the Animal Hospital of Wakefield now provides extended evening office hours.

"I Quit"

Studies have shown that smoking cigarettes has been linked to more illness and disability than any other single factor. Persons who do not smoke, or who have quit smoking, enjoy a much higher level of health than persons who smoke.

To encourage smokers to quit, or to offer support to those who have already decided to, Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., is sponsoring "I Quit," a self-help smoking cessation program conducted through the American Cancer Society.

The four-part course will begin on Monday, April 2, and continue on Thursday, April 5, Monday, April 9, and ending on Thursday, April 12. The program will be held in the Symmes Hospital auditorium from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

To register, and take the first step toward breaking the habit, please contact the Community Relations Department at 646-1500, Extension 1441.

about the way they look. As a result of the vanity, men are finding their way into plastic surgeons' offices and having a variety of cosmetic changes made in order to make themselves more appealing to the opposite sex and to improve their job status.

According to Dr. Eugene H. Courtiss, chief of plastic surgery at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital and author of "Male Esthetic Surgery," men are becoming less concerned about the stigma attached to having cosmetic surgery.

Noted psychologist Ellen Berscheld recently conducted a study on men who underwent cosmetic surgery, and here are a few of the things she learned: their personalities are perceived differently by families, friends and co-workers; they perceive themselves as being more interesting, stronger, poised and extroverted; they are more likely to perform better on the job, even in cases where personal appearance has nothing to do with job performance; and they are more likely to have a healthier mental attitude.

Concern over our physical appearance ranks high with many of us, but concern over our internal well-being is also making the news. Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler said this week that 95,000 cancer deaths in the United States each year could be prevented by the turn of the century if only we Americans would follow a few rules. The thing is, most of the rules Heckler suggests we've been hearing for a long time and many of us don't seem to be following them. She suggests that cancer deaths could be cut if the number of smokers were cut in half; if we eliminated most of the fat from our diets and replaced it with more high-fiber foods; if we reduced the amount of sun-worshipping we do; if we drank alcohol in moderation; if we protected ourselves from cancer-causing agents on the job; and if we avoided X-rays except when absolutely necessary. While on the subject of health, a university researcher revealed this week that if we ate oatmeal and three bran muffins every day our blood pressure would drop ten percent.

Your blood pressure is likely to rise again if you own AT&T stock and you've been following it's decline recently. It hasn't gone down far, but it has nevertheless gone down. Probably due to all that confusion over AT&T's breakup. The result: the number of shareholders has also declined by 200,000....If you can't achieve status by playing the stock-market, have no fear. You can, for as little as $5,100, actually buy an English Lord of the Manor title from London's Manorial Research Ltd....One guy who'll definitely be able to afford one of those English titles is Steve Young, former Brigham Young University quarterback who just signed with the USFL's Los Angeles Express for $40 million. When I heard about his contract the first thing that came to mind was Derek Sanderson and that hefty contract he signed with the World Hockey Association. Only he never had a chance to collect it. I hope Steve Young has better luck with the United States Football League. He'd better hold onto that '65 Olds of his until he does.

"Our appearance, our words, our actions are never greater than ourselves. For the soul is our house; our eyes its window; and our words its messengers." — Khalil Gibran.

Make it a good week.

Middlesex Fells
4,000 acres

The Hurds owned a spice mill which produced herbal medicine. On Spot Pond's opposite side, Joseph Hurd produced lime on Bear Hill's north slope. His burning lime pits removed the expensive marble from the more economical lime, which had industrial uses.

Nathaniel Hayward purchased a rubber mill near the bottom of the brook from Elisha Converse around 1840, which when expanded, solidified the village. In his experiments, Hayward found the key to hardening rubber and later became an industry magnate. He later consorted with Woburn's Charles Goodyear, but it was Goodyear who later learned the secret to producing rubber.

But prosperity would not last. Haywardville died when Spot Pond became a public water source. The brook slowed, suits failed, and the village died.

Until then, train tracks on the west side of the pond, silent for years, but still visible, brought people from Boston to swim, boat, and skate. Two hotels were built — one which attracted Boston's rich, the other a gamblers' den. Several houses similar in style to French chateaus were built on the pond's east side where the New England Memorial Hospital now sits.

There are also chimney remains near the hospital, and the shells of a couple of buildings on the meadow near the water.

Great Island was once used for wrestling matches. An inscription on a boulder there says "Here Fell Shute" — the defeat of a champion. Legend says that during one lengthy match, spectators were tied to trees so the illegal fights wouldn't be reported.

Boston's Fredrick Tudor began an ice business in 1805, constructing several ice houses on Spot Pond's southern shoreline, and sending the product south. His brother, Henry Tudor, later married a daughter of William Foster, owner of one of the French-styled homes. Their third child died at 20 and in whose name a beautiful stretch of woods, known as the Virginia Wood, was added to the Fells in 1923. A commemorative plaque for Virginia Tudor can be found on a boulder near the pond's northeastern shore.

While nothing comparable to Haywardville would spring up on the Winchester side of the woods, the existence of several mills is documented. The Converse family built the first grist mill in Winchester, on Sawmill Brook. On Feb. 2, 1670, Samuel Converse, the son of Edward Converse, was killed by the mill's waterwheel.

The dam and sluiceway of a 1680 mill built by Jonathan Wade may still be visible near Lincoln Road. Mills were also built along the Meetinghouse Brook and Whitmore Brook.

But the Fells still has a future — and a present. "Fells" is a Saxon word for a wild, hilly, land — the perfect description for these woods.

The hills aren't large (Bear Hill is 317 feet), but the jagged rock formations and huge boulders give the area a reclusive feel.

Two of the more prominent peaks dominate the Fells' eastern side in Melrose: 243-foot Black Rock, and 256-foot Melrose Rock. Between them runs the Shilly Shally Brook, which ends with a waterfall-drop of well over 100 feet. Both Black Rock and Melrose Rock are unusual outcroppings that command good views eastward from Melrose to the sea. They are also said to have been Indian smoke-signal stations.

Boojum Rock sits on the southern Malden border of the reservation, with a good view to the south. Nearby, there is also Pinnacle Rock, and the The Druid's Rock. North of Boojum Rock and just south of the Fells Reservoir is Cairn Hill, on which are the toppled remains of an old structure said to have been built by doctor's prescription by a man too lazy to exercise.

In addition to countless bridle trails (used by occasional cross-country skiers) that loop the reservation, there are a series of interlocking footpaths that stretch to the forest's more secluded sections. Stone walls, once property borders, run through the pine groves and sloping hills.

Observation towers top the summits of Bear Hill and Pine Hill, both with good views. In the valley between Bear and Pine lie the three Winchester Reservoirs, built the previous century, and the Sheepfold, a large meadow. And in the Medford sector, just east of the southernmost Winchester Reservoir, is Silver Mine Hill, where in 1881 copper, silver, and gold were mined.

Horses can be rented at the ranch in the woods just across the street from the Stoneham Zoo.

There are also several rustic little ponds — Cranberry Pool, Dark Hollow Pond, Quartermile Pond, Long Pond, Doleful Pond, Shiner Pool, Hemlock Pool, Wright's Pond, and Bellevue Pond — that lend soul to the woods.

The features are many, but most importantly, the Fells bring with it a sense of discovery, and a sense of being.

Factual data compiled in this study is attributed to several books that can be found in the Melrose, Malden, Medford, Winchester, and Stoneham libraries. The most valuable of which is the Medford Historical Society's "Round About Middlesex Fells", written by Ruth Dame Coolidge.

CONCENTRATED COURSES

Middlesex Community College's Division of Continuing Education-Community Services, Bedford, has expanded a course format pilot project begun in the Fall 1983 semester, whereby certain credit courses are scheduled over seven weeks rather than the more familiar fourteen week period. The classes meet twice weekly for a total of six hours of class time, versus the usual three hours per week, enabling the student to cover one semester's work in half the time.

The Division is underway for fifteen concentrated courses which begin the week of April 2. Classes open for enrollment include: Data Processing Principles, English Composition, Introduction to Literature, U.S. History II, Algebra I, Pre-Calculus I, Introduction to Psychology, Introduction to Sociology and Man and The Environment.

Call Continuing Education at 275-8910, Ext. 240 to register.

FORUM ON EDB

In response to conflicting claims on the health risks of pesticide ethylene dibromide (EDB), the New England Food Cooperative Organization announces a Consumer Education Forum on EDB. The forum, scheduled for Wednesday, March 21, will be held in Cambridge at Gutan Library at 7:30 P.M. The library is located at the corner of Brattle Street and Appian Way.

The Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science says the assumption that a new telescope takes users to distant parts of the universe is only partly true. New owners need additional information, obtainable in the Planetarium course, Telescopic Astronomy.

Starting Thursday evening, March 15, the course teaches not only how to choose and use a telescope but also what to look for and where to find celestial objects. The observations, made under the direction of astronomer Dr. Stephen Little are from the Planetarium roof when the weather is fair or inside the Planetarium when clouds or rain obscure the sights.

The course runs for eight successive Thursday evenings. The initial session is from 7 to 9. The fee is $75 or $60 for Museum Members. (Membership information may be obtained by calling 723-2500, ext. 239) To register, call the Planetarium Registrar at 723-2500, ext. 291.

Until concerned citizens are informed and ready to take action, the basic problem of pesticide pollution of our food supply will keep repeating itself in one form or another.

TELESCOPES

Have telescope. Will travel.

The Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science says the assumption that a new telescope takes users to distant parts of the universe is only partly true. New owners need additional information, obtainable in the Planetarium course, Telescopic Astronomy.

Starting Thursday evening, March 15, the course teaches not only how to choose and use a telescope but also what to look for and where to find celestial objects. The observations, made under the direction of astronomer Dr. Stephen Little are from the Planetarium roof when the weather is fair or inside the Planetarium when clouds or rain obscure the sights.

The course runs for eight successive Thursday evenings. The initial session is from 7 to 9. The fee is $75 or $60 for Museum Members. (Membership information may be obtained by calling 723-2500, ext. 239) To register, call the Planetarium Registrar at 723-2500, ext. 291.

"unusual" costumes and spans original choreography set to music ranging from the 'showy and flashy' "It's Raining Men" and the 40's hit, "Sing, Sing, Sing" to gospel, "Liza With A Z", "Dreamgirls", Herbie Hancock and more. Combining the techniques of the Broadway musical stage with dance and choreography, the revue, hosted by well-known dance authority and Editor In-Chief of the prestigious Dance Magazine, Bill Como, features the Sherry Gold Dancers including Jodi Goodman (Miss Dance of America, 1984) and Rhee Gold, the 1982 recipient of Mr. Dance of America award.

According to the Golds, the Dance Theater of Boston hopes to "keep its dancers performing, in repertory concerts, revues or the Dance Theater Company and to create an enthusiasm for Boston audiences by showcasing the widest variety of professional theater dancestyles. Sherry Gold (who also writes the column, "Teacher's World" for Dance Magazine) believes that "the first duty of a dancer is to entertain; a lot of people have forgotten that!"

DINOSAUR DANCE

Spring brings an exciting and varied program from Boston's distinctive contemporary dance group, the Dinosaur Dance Company.

Artistic Director Michael Mao presents works fusing the elegance of ballet with the exuberance of modern dance in the company's resident home, The Dinosaur Space, 10 West St., Boston, near Downtown Crossing and Lafayette Place.

This first of two spring series, from March 29 — April 1 will highlight the late James Waring's "Novelty Sweets" set to the piano rags of Scott Joplin as well as world premieres of works by resident artists.

Set to a haunting melange of traditional whaling shanties and actual whale "songs", Elizabeth Mallinckrodt has choreographed a feature work entitled "Whale Sound". The program will be completed by a new work from Michael Mao whom critics have described as "an exceptionally gifted choreographer," the New England Foundation For The Arts.

Performances will be given at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 29, 30, 31, and at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, April 1.

Tickets for Dinosaur Dance Company performances are $6.00. Performance Passes to The Dinosaur Space, good for two Dinosaur performances and two performances by other companies appearing at The Space are $20. Passes are good through June.

For information and reservations, please call 426-2326.

Celebrate National Nutrition Month with a balanced diet

In recognition of March as National Nutrition Month, Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., takes this opportunity to inform the community on the importance of staying ahead of the game with a balanced diet.

"Everybody Wins With Good Nutrition," is this year's theme by the American Dietetic Association.

No single food can supply the more than 40 nutrients necessary for good health. Therefore, it is important to eat a variety of foods to consume the most nutrients such as necessary proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, fiber and water.

"Better eating habits based on a variety of food choices can help you maintain and even improve your health," said M. Lynne Eddy, director of Food Services at Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc. "Balancing" simply means selecting foods each day from each of the four major food groups: fruits and vegetables (four servings per day); whole grain and enriched breads, cereals, pastas, rice, corn and other grains (four servings per day); milk, cheeses, regular and low-fat yogurt, and ice cream (two servings per day); and meats, fish, poultry, eggs, tofu, beans and nuts (two servings per day.)"

Foods such as butter and margarine, salad dressings and oils, the desserts and jellies all add to the pleasure of eating, but provide mostly "empty calories" — calories without many nutrients. When more calories are taken into the body than used, excess weight results. Therefore, the American Dietetic Association advises to go easy on these extras. Slow down on salts. They suggest herb and spice mixtures from the shaker for new flavor.

Most adults, regardless of age or body size, need the same nutrients in their diet. But there are a few exceptions including women in childbearing years who may need extra iron to replace iron lost in menstrual bleeding. Women who are pregnant or breastfeeding need more iron, vitamin B, vitamin A, calcium, and increased calories from proteins, fats and carbohydrates. The elderly or very inactive people need about the same amount of nutrients as younger active people, but fewer calories.

Individuals are also advised to check product labels carefully for their nutritional value.

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Do you know someone who is a super critic? No matter what you or anyone else does, in this person's opinion it's either "wrong," "stupid," or "useless." Well folks, a certain amount of opposition is great to help reassess an idea, change it to work better or "scrub," it and start anew. We all know that "kites," rise against the wind — "not" with the wind. But to be near a constant critic is like having a pain in the neck — or a little lower.

My sister Kathleen is married to a construction worker who is never satisfied in anything, especially his lunch. Every night his complaint was the same, "not enough." So instead of the customary one sandwich she put two in his lunch box — but the fault finding continued, every day for weeks.

One day she bought a two pound loaf of unsliced Italian bread, cut it in two halves, then put one pound of roast beef, two sliced tomatoes, one onion, and topped it off with a pound of American cheese. She wrapped it up and put it in a large brown bag. That night when John came home from work she waited in vain for a compliment — receiving none she inquired, "How did you like the lunch I made for you today, John?" "Oh, it was o.k. I guess — but I see you're back to one sandwich again!"

Do you know for whom your street was named? Some of my neighbors have already told me, "Who the heck cares?" It makes me think of what a rooster said with a sigh of resignation, "What's the use, yesterday an egg, today a rooster, tomorrow a feather duster."

A committee generally is a group of people who get together to discuss many things and in conclusion accomplish "nothing." The circus is looking for a person of the right "caliber" to be shot out of a cannon as the "human cannon ball." My cousin Dennis Tully would qualify, he was a little "B-B" when he was born, is now a "big shot" and besides that is "willing to travel." I hope as far as I'm concerned they send him to the moon and leave him there.

I have just received some good news. My neighbor Howie Murphy has gone to his "Eternal Rest." He went to Washington to accept a government job. I have been told that a paddy wagon backed up to the Woburn Elks and took one of the chefs away — it seems the poor guy went "stir crazy."

I miss Bill McGar at the Elks. Bill reminds me of the great John L. Sullivan, ferocious as a lion in the boxing ring but gentle as a lamb outside of it. Al Quinno is the genial host at the Elks' noon day dinners. If you think that nobody knows you're alive — just try missing a couple of installment payments.

A vacation usually is two weeks on the "sands" followed by the rest of the year on the "rocks." Memories, Memories, Dreams of Long Ago. Do you remember when most houses had piazzas where on hot summer evenings the family would sit and talk with neighbors?

Later when it got dark, the marsh along Hastings Street would come alive as millions of fireflies would blink their lights on and off like so many diamonds in a giant necklace encircling the marsh. Then the frogs nocturnal chorus could be heard from the fresh water pond nearby. Then came the war years with ration stamps needed to buy butter, sugar, auto tires and gasoline. The kids in my neighborhood would wait for the Pony Boy ice cream wagon with the brightly colored sun umbrella. Everyone had a vegetable garden. There were corner grocery stores everywhere — but the most popular store for my sisters was the Woolworth Five and Ten. They would buy combs, hairpins and sewing needles and if they had an extra "dime", a bottle of exotic perfume imported from "Chelsea."

Those were the days when people's pockets were empty but their hearts were full with love, compassion and friendliness for one another. Neighbors were genuinely concerned and would "run" over to help at a moment's notice. Some neighbors today would most likely "run" you over if you don't get out of the way in time. What a difference, my kids idea of "balanced diet" today is a "hamburger sandwich" in each hand.

My wife asked me why I don't bring her candy like I used to do when I was courting her? I looked at her, smiled and said, "Dear, no one keeps feeding worms to a fish 'after' he's caught it."

"City Hall," said a pleasant voice at the switchboard. "Are you sure this is City Hall?" asked a nervous, timid and anxious lady. "Yes Ma'am, it is. To whom do you wish to speak?" "I guess no one," the lady replied, "you see I found this telephone number in my husband's coat pocket last night."

Congratulations to Ben Caggiano, designer and builder of Stoneham's Rosetree Plaza. You sir are an "Horatio Alger" story personified. You are a splendid example of what one person can do when fired with the burning ambition to succeed and the determination and dedication to work to attain that goal. Being a carpenter myself, sir — keep in mind that if you need a chairman of the "Board" or a speaker at any "Panel Discussion," it will be "Oak-A" to call on me.

My wife bought a carpet at the Village Carpet Shop in Reading last week. She told me she liked the sales people there. She described them to be just like the carpet she bought, rugged, colorful and most important of all "durable." My Uncle John Shea of North Reading is in his eighties. When asked to what he attributed his longevity, he replied, "I eat garlic every day, that's my secret." Standing about ten feet away I asked "What makes you think it's a 'secret'?"

From federal agencies

Apply now for cultural funds

by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities

Massachusetts has lost $10 million in federal funds for the arts and humanities since 1980.

"Our survey shows that the decline is caused, in part, by the fact that Massachusetts artists and cultural organizations are filing fewer applications with federal agencies," says Anne Hawley, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, the Commonwealth's state arts agency. "And it seems to be happening because people believe the prospects of winning an award are bleak."

Nothing could be further from the truth. There is more money available today than ever before.

In fact, two agencies with funds for arts and humanities projects have the largest budgets of their history. One, the National Endowment for the Arts, has an appropriation of $162 million, $37 million more than President Reagan requested. The Institute for Museum Services also begins the year with its highest appropriation ever, slightly over 20 million. And the National Endowment for the Humanities, while not overseeing the largest budget in its existence, has substantial funds in its total of $140 million.

"There was a dark time in the spring and summer of 1981, after President Reagan called for a 50 percent cut in federal funding for the arts and humanities, when some people weren't sure the Endowments would continue," remembers Geoffrey Platt, Jr., Executive Director of the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies. "And while there was a great deal of publicity surrounding the proposed 50 percent cut, there was little attention paid to the actual fact that the final cuts in Endowment appropriations averaged 9 percent."

There were, to be sure, reductions in some program areas at the Endowments. For example, available funding for media arts dropped by almost $1.4 million. Two other programs, Museums and Opera Musical, lost $700,000. And while the number of dance companies to receive awards remained the same, the money they divided fell by more than $450,000.

"But right now," Hawley continues, "there is a substantial amount of money available from federal agencies for the arts and humanities. And we want to encourage Massachusetts artists and cultural groups to apply."

Writers of poetry, fiction or creative prose can apply to the National Endowment for the Arts for individual awards of $20,000, increased from last year's amount of $12,500 each. Artists working in design arts or crafts also need to apply for these prestigious fellowships in March. April brings deadlines for playwrights, translators and choreographers, with other disciplines in following months.

Educators, conservators, theatre and dance companies, historical organizations, and more will find funds for special projects, and often for operating support as well. The list is long and varied.

The National Endowment for the Humanities offers a Challenge Grant Program, with a May 1 deadline, which will distribute $18 million this year in separate grants, ranging from $2,500 to $1.5 million each. Each dollar awarded by the Endowment must generate at least three non-federal dollars in turn. Matching money must come from new sources or represent increased contributions by existing donors. Seeking to broaden private support for institutions with programs or resources in the humanities, this program is open to such organizations as colleges, historical societies, public libraries and museums.

Conservators with objects of historic or artistic significance in need of preservation should contact the Institute for Museum Services and inquire about the new Conservation Program. This program, offered for the first time this spring, has a budget of nearly $3 million. Program specialists report they expect to fund at least 600 applications during the first cycle with awards of $25,000 each. The awards must be matched on a dollar dollar basis with cash or in-kind contributions from non-federal sources.

Another National Endowment for the Humanities Program, Youth Projects, funds out-of-school programs in the humanities for children of high school age or younger. Offering average grants of $30,000, Youth Projects welcomes applications from state universities, community colleges, libraries, public schools and Indian tribes. A letter describing the proposed project is due by April 20, and the full application must be submitted by June 15.

Those seeking information about these or other federal funding programs for the arts and humanities are urged to call the agencies in Washington, D.C. directly or contact Cheryl Balukonis at the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities (617-727-1517) for more information.

Movie Review

Is "The Right Stuff" worth seeing? Yes, but....

By CHARLES C. RYAN

Early reviews of "The Right Stuff," currently playing at Showcase Cinemas in Woburn and other suburban theaters, often became so caught up with the possible impact of the film on the presidential candidacy of Sen. John Glenn, that it was nearly impossible to determine if the movie was worth seeing for its own sake.

Now that Glenn's chances of winning the Democratic nomination are an out and out long shot and the movie has been released locally, a second look is worth the effort.

Is "The Right Stuff" worth seeing?

Yes. But it is not the slam-bang epic of a movie it could have been because of loose editing. At three hours, the film is at least a half hour too long.

The ingredients are all there. History itself provides drama of epic proportions in America's race to put a man into space in 1957 in the wake of Sputnik and the Soviet's launching of Yuri Gagarin into orbit in 1961.

But director-writer Philip Kaufman chose to make light of the tense political situation with the same antic scene repeated in the film. And he chose to emphasize the political shallowness behind some of the decisions made by President Dwight Eisenhower and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, rather than reflect the genuine concern that gripped the country when it learned the Soviets had a satellite circling over our heads every 90 minutes.

True, Tom Wolfe's book "The Right Stuff" didn't lack humor and made a point of finding all the nits there were to pick with the space program, the press and the false "clean-cut American" image created for the astronauts — largely as a result of Glenn's lead at the press conference which presented the candidates chosen for the Mercury program.

But Wolfe's irreverent book still managed to capture the myth and epic nature of the undertaking by zeroing in on Chuck Yeager, the test pilot who first broke the sound barrier and set the mold for all aspirants to "the right stuff" to match.

The film tries to be true to Wolfe's book, but the opening with Yeager and other test pilots at Edwards Air Force Base is too long. By the time the audience realizes the Mercury program is as much the subject as Yeager, things have already slowed down.

The editing of the film should have been done with the same "go, baby go" impatience and urgency adopted by those watching Alan Shephard rocket into space.

Part of the film's slowness is compensated for by some excellent cinematography, and good acting on the part of Sam Shephard as Yeager, Ed Harris as Glenn and others.

And, like the book, the film catches some of the true lighter moments, such as when Shephard, forced to sit in his capsule for over seven hours before the first suborbital flight, had to urinate into his suit.

The film is entertaining and presents a (only mildly fictionalized) historical perspective on the hectic days surrounding America's entry into the space race that is worth having.

But the perspective given by Wolfe's book is even better.

Record Review

Albums by Ronstadt, McVie worth a listen

By DAN KENNEDY

A few years ago, when Linda Ronstadt's remarkable string of success as a country rock singer was beginning to run out, she briefly turned to punk rock and new wave. When that didn't work (Ronstadt made no more credible a punker than Barbra Streisand would), she changed her entire musical style, appearing on Broadway in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance" — a big success.

Her latest move away from rock and toward glamour is "What's New," an album of torch songs from the 1940s and '50s recorded with the Nelson Riddle Orchestra. Riddle's reputation was made as Frank Sinatra's arranger and conductor several decades ago, and it is apparent from this album that he hasn't lost his touch.

Back in her rock and roll days, Ronstadt was frequently quoted as saying that, if she had her choice, she would sing nothing but ballads. She certainly gets that opportunity on "What's New." All nine songs are ballads, great mixtures of pop and jazz, by some of the most well-known names in popular music — George and Ira Gershwin and Irving Berlin, to name three.

Ronstadt's singing is also nothing short of spectacular. When she burst on the musical scene 15 years ago, her outstanding quality was her big, clear, expressive voice. While many singers have wrecked their voices over such a long period of time, Ronstadt has actually gotten better. Her singing on "What's New" is strong, controlled and perfectly modulated.

The songs that Ronstadt sings here tend to have cornball, pun-ridden lyrics that may grate on modern ears — at least they do on mine. As a result, the best songs tend to be those that are the most timeless and the least corny — "What's New" (currently a hit single), "Crazy He Calls Me," "I Don't Stand a Ghost of a Chance With You" and "Good-Bye."

Ronstadt has called this album her "life's work," but I can't buy it. In her greatest albums of the past, such as "Heart Like a Wheel" and "Hasten Down the Wind," she was not merely good — she was also original. As great as she sounds on "What's New," she's merely copying other people's work. It's no accident that Riddle won a Grammy for this album and she did not.

Still, if you're a fan of torch songs of the past, this is one album you'll definitely want to check out.

Christine McVie

Ronstadt is not the only female vocalist to be trying something new. Christine McVie, pianist, singer and songwriter for Fleetwood Mac, has released her first solo album in 14 years, and it's an entertaining, if unspectacular, performance.

Titled simply "Christine McVie," the album contains 10 songs that are similar to her work with Fleetwood Mac and feature her soulful singing and tasteful piano playing.

Although she writes most of her Fleetwood Mac songs on her own, here she has written only one — "The Smile I Live For," a fine ballad which ends the album. Five other songs are cowritten with guitarist Todd Sharp, who lends a more rocking sense to her work, another ("Ask Anybody," one of the album's strongest songs) is cowritten with Steve Winwood, and the other three don't feature McVie at all.

The album's highlights are mostly on the first side. "Love Will Show Us How" and "The Challenge" (the latter featuring a quiet guitar solo by Eric Clapton) roll along nicely, while "So Excited" and "One In A Million" (a duet with Winwood) keep things moving. The side closes with "Ask Anybody." Side two opens with the hit single "Got a Hold On Me," which is alright, but not as good as most of the material on side one. The rest of side two is filler except for "The Smile I Live For."

McVie will probably never be as popular as Fleetwood Mac's other female singer-songwriter, Stevie Nicks. McVie's songs are more mainstream than Nicks', and her appearance is not as striking. But I'll take McVie's solid musicianship and wonderful voice over Nicks's mysterious mumbo-jumbo and cracked, off-key singing any day of the week. "Christine McVie" may not be stamped with the mark of greatness, but it's solid, enjoyable entertainment.

VA says numbers of female veterans grows

The number of female veterans continues to grow slowly but steadily according to a report published by the Veterans Administration's Office of Reports and Statistics.

Women veterans living in the United States and Puerto Rico as of March 31, 1983, were estimated at 1,150,000 or 4.1 percent of all living veterans. The total was about 39,000 or 3.5 percent, higher than the 1980 Census figure, an increase which represents an upward trend not characteristic of the male veteran population.

According to John J. McNiff, director of the Boston VA Regional Office, Massachusetts has a total of 30,800 women veterans including 600 from World War I; 14,000 from World War II; 3,300 Korean Conflict and 5,200 Vietnam Era veterans.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Harry N. Walters pointed out that as the number of female veterans grows, and as more and more move into the older age groups, their needs will increase correspondingly.

Other findings in the study include:

Thirty-six percent of female veterans served during peacetime only.

One of every five female veterans is at least 65 years old.

California has the largest female veteran population (149,800), followed by New York (74,100), Florida (73,200), Texas (72,800) and Pennsylvania (55,500). Collectively these five states accounted for 37 percent of all female veterans living in the United States.

The female veteran population is expected to increase slowly but steadily throughout the next several decades.

The elderly female veteran population is projected to grow at a slower pace than that for males.

Trivia

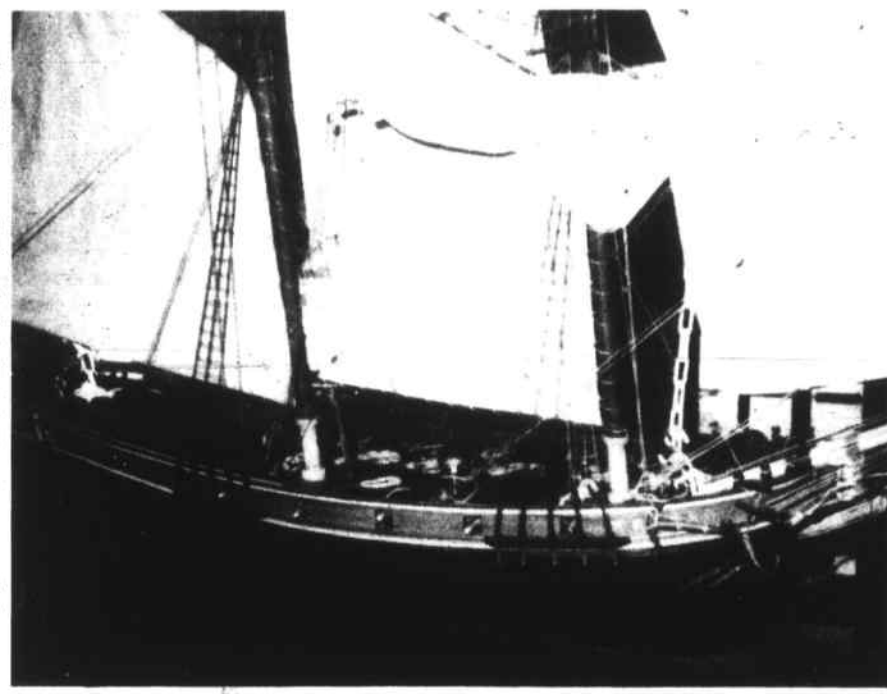

More than 40 percent of the world's rain forests have been cut down or burned down, says International Wildlife magazine. Studies indicate this is reducing rainfall and increasing temperatures — perhaps affecting global weather patterns.

Safe Boating Council awards banquet

STONEHAM — Thomas C. Lucet, advertising manager of the Stoneham Independent, will be the main speaker at the annual awards banquet of the New England Safe Boating Council.

This very popular event will be held on Wednesday, March 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the Officer's Club, Hanscomb Air Force Base, Bedford. Mr. Lucet will speak to the anticipated 60 or more in attendance about his relatively new "U.S.S. Hannah II" plans. Lucet was appointed chairman of a 13-member commission to rebuild an 80' replica of the first ship commissioned by General George Washington on September 5, 1775.

Mr. Lucet stated that Beverly, where he and his wife live, lays claim to the fact that their city is the birthplace of the U.S. Navy.

Psychic Fair at Woburn Mall

Come to the Woburn Mall on St. Patrick's Day and enjoy the Psychic Fair — no blarney.

The Moran, Irish Step dancers, will perform from 5-6 p.m. center court. Enjoy Irish Corn Beef and Cabbage. Have your specialized hats and T-shirts made up — plenty of good foods and heart warming tunes. There will be a drawing for a free week trip to Bermuda following the performance. Come and share the wearing of the green.

The Woburn Mall has invited Ramona Garcia and her colleagues of Psi-Fare Associates to present a Psychic Fair at the Woburn Mall March 15-18. Internationally famous Ramona Garcia has been assisting greater Boston area residents with her psychic abilities for over fourteen years. Educated and trained in not only psychic readings but tarot cards, palmistry, faith healing and hypnosis, the Psi-Fare Associates are a group of the greater northeast's most experienced psychics.

The Psychic Fair to be held at Woburn Mall is just one of Ms. Garcia's many area-wide appearances. She has performed and lectured in a variety of locations and on major media in this and other areas. A popular guest of WBZ Radio's Larry Glick Show, Ramona has been an outspoken advocate of the place of psychic ability in today's society.

The field of psychic science is a growing one which provokes serious thought. Modern society, in its search for answers, has begun to look to psychics for assistance in handling everyday problems, finding lost children and planning for the precarious future.

A natural and colorful speaker, Ramona Garcia is a leader of her field. Her media experience as well as her natural ability to do psychic demonstrations on air makes her an ideal guest.

Medical Center changes name

Usually when the sign on a store or business changes, it's because the previous owners have gone out of business and the property has been passed along to someone else.

On Tuesday, when the sign in front of Main Street's Physicians' Medical & Emergency Center, Inc. changed, however, it was a symbol of success.

HealthFirst Walk-In Medical Care, as the medical center which has been in existence for three years will be called, has become such a success that the group who started it has decided to expand their services to other New England cities and towns. And also to kick-off the expansion with a new title.

"The people of Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield were really pioneers in what has become a popular method of health care," says Richard L. Franklin, M.D., chairman of HealthFirst. "And because of the success we have had delivering high quality health care to citizens of these communities, we've opted to streamline our name to make it easier to remember and to give the message that we care about our patients' health first and foremost."

The idea of walk-in medical care focuses on the principle that anyone can come into a medical office and see a physician without an appointment and without waiting long periods of time in order to get the medical attention they want.

HealthFirst, besides treating common medical injuries relating to allergies, infections and minor injuries, also has x-ray equipment on the premises and will handle any needed electrocardiograms and laboratory work.

HealthFirst serves area industries by treating accidents and performing pre-employment physicals. And, in addition, will continue its tradition of administering student physicals to children from nearby schools.

"Walk-in medical care is a good concept and has grown because of its acceptance by the townspeople," states Dr. Franklin.

"And as a larger organization, we will have the ability in the future to offer more services and to reach more people."

The name change will be accompanied by a newspaper billboard and radio campaign throughout the area.

March 24th

Refunders come to Reading

Have you ever found yourself in a grocery store checkout wondering how a "coupon shopper" has just saved more money than she's spent?

With today's economy and the struggle to stretch our super-market dollar, refunders and refunding is becoming more familiar. Many people enjoy watching their weekly deductions come off their food bill. To some refunders, refunding is just a hobby that pays, to others it's becoming a necessity for household budgets.

Everyone wants to save money at the checkout — but not everyone knows what refunding is or how to refund. A refund is an incentive given to the consumer by the manufacturer for buying certain products. This incentive is usually a cash refund, a "free product" store coupon or cents off coupons for future purchases.

Refunding is the shopping system of regularly turning boxtops, labels and specified proof of purchases into cashing in on these offers. Refunding is not just on "junk" food items. Refunders receive savings on items that you buy regularly. Savings on fresh meat, milk, eggs, bread, produce and many other fresh items are also refund related. There are offers on new products.

Manufacturers want consumers to try their products, but more offers are on product that you are currently buying weekly. Refunders save money and do not buy products they don't normally use. During recent years, with inflation, refunds have become an increasingly popular way for manufacturers to attract attention to their products and keep the consumer using the same product.

Refunding has its work, like any hobby it takes time, organization and a system. Most refunders subscribe to monthly publications called "refund bulletins". There are over 100 nationally published bulletins, subscription rates vary, the average is $12 for one year. The quality of the bulletins also vary, that's why it's important to see a sample before you subscribe.

Bulletins include many helpful items. They list hundreds of new offers monthly. Depending on the bulletin, there is usually a section listing addresses to write for a form that you have not obtained. Forms are usually found in the grocery store or in newspapers, if the offer requires an "official" refund form, you cannot participate in the offer unless you have the form.

Do not write directly to the manufacturer sponsoring the promotion, as they usually will not mail you the form. There are many offers that do not require a form, a good bulletin will indicate which offers there are. Bulletins also advertise national refund conventions.

In the current issue of "Moneytalk" a bulletin, there are over 100 conventions listed nationally during the upcoming months. One of these listed is a convention that will be held locally on March 24.

The Eastern Massachusetts Refunders' Convention will once again, be held in Reading on Saturday, March 24. The meeting place is conveniently located right off Route 93 at Austin Prep. This convention will have a beginner's workshop.

The beginners will learn how to save money at the grocery store, what refunders are, how to refund and the difference between refunding and couponing. Everyone will be given copies of refunding bulletins to take home and put to immediate use.

There will also be speakers and company representatives attending, along with many experienced refunders willing to share experience and knowledge. The past convention had attendance from every New England state plus New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Refunders and coupon users travel many miles to attend a good refunding convention. Last year, 26 refunders put cash register tapes on display. These regular tapes represented one "Shopping Spree" with high coupon savings. The one tape that reflected the highest savings was $422.40 total worth of groceries; total amount paid was only $47.08 — savings was $375.32. The total purchases of all 26 register tapes equalled $3,722.85. Total amount paid $1,101.57. Total coupon savings $2,621.28. You too, could become a "Super Shopper".

The convention is a great place to start because there is so much information available. If you are interested in more information on the upcoming convention: Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Brenda VanHorn, 53 Mt. Vernon Street, Reading, Ma. 01867. Advanced registration is required to guarantee you a seat. The registration fee is $6.00 for the entire day's activities and refreshments. Registration begins at 9:00 A.M. and the convention will be ending at 4:40 P.M.

Free counselling at Health Center

A young woman struggles to make decisions about a man and her future; a 17-year-old, pregnant and unwed, must make a decision for her baby's future; a middle-aged man under stress feels his job is affecting his health. These are all situations that warrant the assistance of a professional counselor.

Anyone struggling with personal concerns can come to the Regional Health Center in Wilmington for short-term counseling at no charge with Social Services Coordinator, Cindy R. Levine.

As a licensed independent clinical social worker, Levine carefully listens to each client describe his/her perception of the problem; and reasons for seeking help. To get to the root of the problem, she also takes a history, which includes basic information about major life events and the individual's living, family and social situations. Individual coping styles and strategies are also explored, to help the social worker identify each person's strengths and difficulties.

In the first session, a goal oriented verbal contract is made between Levine and the client.

"I don't pressure the client to talk," Levine says, "the client reveals only what he or she feels comfortable discussing. But we must agree on a specific goal in order to set up a framework for accomplishing something in a limited length of time."

When a problem is identified, Levine helps the client to see how it affects the family unit. Her training, and therefore, her counseling is family-oriented.

"It's ideal for the entire family to be involved in the counseling process, for most kinds of problems. If that's not possible, the client is guided to see how the situation affects the other family members," Levine added.

Clients referred to Social Services for counseling include those with chronic illnesses sent by their physicians.

"They are often feeling isolated, even if they do not live alone," said Levine. "In cases where illness or disease is involved, we have to deal with emotions such as guilt, anger, anxiety and fear. It is common for people to ask 'why me?'"

Therapy sessions are flexible at the Regional Health Center. "It is a mutual process, whereby goals can be re-negotiated before completing the process."

Cindy Levine provides objective, non-judgmental feedback to her clients, helping them to assess their own problems and make their own decisions. She shares her observations with each client and aids them in understanding they do have choices in most cases.

Counseling provides individuals with a personal growth experience to learn more about themselves. For those who may feel apprehensive about coming for individual or family therapy, Levine will take phone calls at 657-3910, ext. 568. However, she encourages those considering counseling to come for one visit and find out how helpful it can be by calling 657-3910, ext. 524 to schedule an appointment.

For those in need of long-term counseling or a referral, a recommendation is made to an appropriate professional, agency or service.

Social Services also provides support groups and community programs for parents of hyperactive children, job seekers; on decision-making (high school students), retirement, aging relatives and relaxation training.

There is potential for groups on single-parenting, divorce, death and dying, sleep disorders and pain management.

Levine, who holds a master's degree in social work from the University of Michigan, functions as a community service of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington and is eager to meet the needs of this service area. She is receptive to new program ideas and welcomes input from everyone in the community.

This sign at Health First on Main Street in Reading was erected this week. Previously the name had been Physicians Medical and Emergency Center.

Running Tips
For Beginner, Intermediate Or Advanced Runners
Health Hints
By Fred Thompson
If you get a blister when running, don't break it. Put petroleum jelly on it. If the blister is severe, stop running until it heals—do some other form of exercise. To avoid getting a stitch in your side when you run, don't run on an empty stomach. Eat something before you run...tea and toast is good.

If you injure your Achilles tendon, apply cold, not heat. All competitors in the Colgate Women's Games who have tendon injuries put their feet in a small bucket of ice for 15 minutes at a time.
If you come down with shin splints, treat it with ice. Freeze water in a paper cup and rub it up and down your leg for 15 minutes at a time. As the ice melts, just peel back the paper of the cup. To avoid the problem, try not to run continually on a very hard surface.
Fred Thompson is Meet Director of Colgate Women's Games, sponsored by the Colgate-Palmolive Company for ten years.
